Courageous Woman Aviator Reaches Safety In Persia

Mrs. Victor Bruce, Who Had Been Missing Since Sunday, Arrives at Jask After Being Forced Down in Hill Country to the North; Rescue Parties Sent Out in Response to Distress Call.

Jask, Persia, Oct. 7.—The Hon. Mrs. Victor Bruce, British air woman, who early to-day flashed a distress call from a point near here, arrived in this place a few minutes after noon.

Mrs. Bruce, who was attempting a flight to Tokyo, had been missing since Sunday, when she vanished after passing over Henjam, on the Persian Gulf.

Mrs. Bruce asked help after she had crashed in the hills about twenty miles north of Jask and rescuers went to her assistance.

Karachi, India, Oct. 7.—Mrs. Victor Bruce, British woman aviator flying from England to Tokyo, crashed this morning on a range of hills called Kohinor, about twenty miles north of Jask, and sent out a call for help.

A rescue party, including a doctor and an engineer, started out in a sailing vessel from here shortly after the distress call was received. Jask is a small town on a promontory of southern Persia, about 375 miles from Karachi.

NURSE LOST FROM LOUISE

Mystery Shrouds Disappearance of Ruth Rinehart

Vancouver, Oct. 7.—Mystery shrouds the disappearance of Miss Ruth Rinehart, twenty-one-year-old nurse of 3523 Seventy-second Avenue South-east, Portland, Ore., who was reported missing from the Canadian Pacific steamship Princess Louise when the vessel docked at Pier D at 8.30 a.m. with 175 passengers from Alaska points.

The girl was last seen shortly before midnight Sunday, according to ship's officers, when she ascended to the bridge deck, and knocking at the pilot house door, asked for a man named "Doug." The ship was at sea, they reported, and there was a stiff gale blowing.

Miss Rinehart was advised by the officer in charge to go to her stateroom. Captain A. Slater, commander of the vessel, reported to provincial police this morning. She was assisted to the lower deck, he said, and the last seen of the young woman was when she ran toward the stern, laughing as she forced her way through the rain.

When Miss Rinehart failed to appear Monday morning, Capt. Slater ordered the ship searched, but officers failed to find any trace of Miss Rinehart, they reported. The commander immediately wireless a report to the inspector of Provincial Police here, who is investigating.

Miss Rinehart boarded the Princess Louise at Wrangell, Alaska, according to the ship's passenger list.

TARIFF IS NOT FAVORED IN BRITAIN

MacDonald Says Tariff Truce Was Signed to Permit Negotiations

Llandudno, Wales, Oct. 7.—Speaking to the Labor Party conference here to-day, Premier Ramsay MacDonald made it plain that the British government did not favor protection tariffs, declared Britain signed the "tariff truce" agreement at Geneva only to permit the opening of negotiations; and blamed British industry for failing to make the most of the opportunities afforded it by the Labor government.

The Prime Minister referred to the Imperial Conference which, in a plenary session later this week, will discuss Empire trade. "If we started a new system of trade protection of any kind, we must apply it to benefit ourselves, not to quixotically look after every other interest except our own," he said. "There is not a single Prime Minister here from any Dominion who will regard us as anything but short-sighted fools if we do anything else."

EXPORT OF HELIUM FROM U.S. SOUGHT BY BRITEN TO AVERT AIR DISASTERS

Washington, Oct. 7.—In an effort to avert future aircraft disasters abroad, the House of Representatives today announced that it would sponsor legislation at the next Congress to permit exportation of helium for use in dirigibles of foreign governments.

Voicing the opinion that the disaster to the British dirigible R-101 would not have occurred had the non-inflammable helium been used instead of hydrogen gas, Britten said he favored either permitting foreign governments to establish plants in the United States or increasing the facilities of this country so the product could be sold abroad at cost.

The United States is the only country in the world possessing helium in unlimited quantities, but present law prohibits its exportation. Britten made his announcement after Rear-Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the navy bureau of aeronautics, had urged repeal of the present law to permit helium to be sold in peace time to all nations, especially to Great Britain and Germany. He added the extent of the R-101 disaster "is undoubtedly due" to its having been inflated with hydrogen gas.

FUNDAMENTAL CONDITIONS IN CANADA ARE SOUND

Toronto, Oct. 7.—"Fundamental conditions in Canada are sound; the clouds which at the moment obscure the rising sun of Canada's prosperity will soon be dissipated. There is no reason to fear the final turn of events," said Dr. John W. Ross, Montreal, chairman of the national executive committee of the Canadian Chambers of Commerce, in addressing the convention of that body here to-day.

Free State Asks Right to Appeal To Hague Court

Irish Delegates to Imperial Conference Make Important Reservation in Agreeing to Take Disputes With Other Dominions Before Empire Appeal Tribunal; Suggested Jurisdiction Be Limited to Justiciable Disputes.

By George Himmelman, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

London, Oct. 7.—The Irish Free State wants to make an important reservation to the proposed Empire Appeal Tribunal. She is willing to take disputes with any other dominion to the tribunal, but at the same time, as an international entity, she wants to reserve the right to appeal to the Court of International Justice at The Hague if necessary.

When Great Britain and the dominions signed the optional clause on the world court statutes, providing for compulsory arbitration of justiciable disputes, they all, except the Free State, added a rider that reference to the Hague court should not include disputes between units of the British Commonwealth. The Irish Free State signed the clause without any reservation.

Now it is understood, the Free State is pressing its position similarly before the Imperial Conference. She has for some time expressed a disinclination to submit to the jurisdiction of the Privy Council Judicial Committee.

POSITION UNDER REVIEW

The whole position came under review at the meeting of the conference's first committee, under Lord Sankey, Lord Chancellor, to-day, held in the House of Lords.

Re-establishment of an Empire tribunal of appeal is one of the recommendations of the experts committee on operation of Dominion laws which sat last year. It is suggested the tribunal's jurisdiction should be limited to justiciable disputes between members of the British Commonwealth. It is distinguished from appeals to the Privy Council, in that it is not proposed before the tribunal should hear appeals by individuals. Where the Privy Council arbitrates between appellants in the same dominion of colony, the Empire tribunal would arbitrate between different countries of the Empire.

CHAMBER URGES BY-LAW SOON ON AIR FIELD HERE

City Asked to Hasten Action on Submission of Measure to Ratepayers

Submission of a by-law to the ratepayers of Victoria to have the Lansdowne flying field established as an airport is urged by the Chamber of Commerce in a resolution approved by the directors yesterday afternoon.

A communication from the chamber supporting such a move and suggesting that it be done as soon as possible, will come before the City Council at its meeting next Monday night.

The aviation committee of the chamber placed the project before the board, asking authorization, by-law of the money necessary to put the field into proper condition with the necessary landing facilities.

It is understood action of the committee was partly the outcome of the recent crash at the field in which three men narrowly escaped injury when their plane overturned in landing.

The chamber also approved a resolution asking the city to restrict the present use of Lansdowne field to that of an emergency landing ground, in view of the objections raised by residents of the nuisances caused by planes in the district. This had already been combated, it is understood, by the city in posting notices at the field that taxi planes will not be allowed to operate out of the ground.

Memorial Service For R-101 Victims at St. Paul's Cathedral Wednesday

London, Oct. 7.—The Government to-day took its first step toward a public investigation into the causes of the R-101 disaster and its toll of death by ordering a coroner's inquiry to open on Friday, conducted by Ingleby Odie, the Westminster coroner.

Beginning of the inquiry will follow closely upon England's official funeral memorial to the dirigible's dead at St. Paul's Cathedral, for which preparations are being made. The chief development in the memorial plans was announcement that the Prince of Wales would represent King George at the commemorative gathering. The other members of the Royal Family are expected to either attend in person or be represented.

Busy scenes were enacted to-day at the mortuary attached to the Westminster coroner's court where arrangements were being made for reception of the bodies upon their arrival late to-night. (Concluded on Page 2)

Dominion's Jurisdiction Over Aviation Is Ruled Paramount, Not Exclusive

Canadian Press Ottawa, Oct. 7.—The Dominion Government has paramount but not exclusive jurisdiction over aviation. This is the effect of a majority judgment handed down by the Supreme Court of Canada to-day on the reference as to the regulation and control of aeronautics in Canada. The reference was made by the former government last spring to determine the jurisdiction as between the Dominion and the provinces.

The first of four questions submitted to the Supreme Court was: "Have the Parliament and Government of Canada exclusive legislative and executive authority for performing the obligations of Canada, or of any province thereof, under the convention entitled 'Convention relating to the regulation of aerial navigation'?"

The court was unanimous that "as framed, question No. 1 must be answered in the negative."

In the reasons for judgment, however, the majority of the court took the view that had the word "paramount" been used instead of "exclusive," the answer would have been in the affirmative.

Question No. 2 as submitted read: "Is legislation of the Parliament of Canada providing for the regulation and control of aeronautics generally within Canada, including flying operations, carried on entirely within the limits of a province, necessary or proper for performing the obligations of Canada, or of any province thereof, under the convention mentioned, within the meaning of Section 132 of the British North America Act, 1867?" The answer of the Chief Justice and Justices Duff, Rinfret, Lamont, Smith and Cannon to question No. 2, in question refers to the power of the minister to make regulations with the approval of the Governor-in-council, provides for the publication of regulations to be laid before Parliament and sets out certain penalties for violation of regulations.

Defence Minister To Speak Here On Imperial Parley

Hon. D. M. Sutherland, Minister of National Defence, will address the Canadian Club of Victoria at a special luncheon in the Empress Hotel on Friday, October 17. It was announced by John Cochrane, chairman of the speakers' committee this morning.

The luncheon will commence at 12.15 o'clock. "Canada and the Imperial Conference" will be the subject taken by Mr. Sutherland for his address. The date was selected after consultation with Brigadier J. Sutherland Brown. During his visit here the minister will be the guest of the officers commanding the local military district.

Lord Thomson Eager As Boy For Voyage To India On R-101

Hugh Savage, Publisher of Cowichan Leader, Tells of Meeting Air Minister and Sir Sefton Branker at Imperial Press Conference in London Recently; Describes Visit to Both R-100 and R-101 and Says Cabins of Latter Were More Comfortable Than on Other Ship.

By Hugh Savage of The Cowichan Leader
Delegate to the recent Imperial Press Conference

If you had been privileged to see the two great British airships in flight and to roam through their interior economy at anchor, the loss of R-101 would come to you as a personal blow. Had you also had the honor of meeting and talking with Lord Thomson and Sir Sefton Branker, you would realize anew that the Empire and the world of aviation have lost two of their most distinguished leaders.

By Lord Thomson's death, Canada has been robbed of a good friend. I met him first two years ago. He was one of the party of delegates from the parliament of the British Commonwealth which visited Canada under the auspices of the Empire Parliamentary Association. I joined them September 11, in Victoria, where Premier Tolmie's speech on "dehorned strawberries" kept us all smiling through a week's tour in B.C.

A REAL SOLDIER
Nobody who heard Lord Thomson speak at Vernon will think of him other than as a soldier. # PLEASURE NOT CHIEF OBJECT IN THIS LIFE

Love of pleasure was not a bad sign, but the pursuit of pleasure should not be made a person's sole purpose in life, said the Rev. J. E. Findlay, M.A., the fraternal delegate appointed by the Church of Scotland to the General Council of the United Church of Canada, in an address at the First United Church yesterday evening.

Canadian youths and young women had every reason to feel the joy of living, he continued, saying that they were living in a land with a noble heritage, rich traditions, an enviable liberty and rich natural resources. He inferred that with such a background the youth of the nation had every reason to enjoy life, but again advised his hearers not to make their sole purpose in life a search for pleasure.

In the modern day too much store was placed in the cleverness of an individual, stated Mr. Findlay, adding that the uneducated man, with no substantial background and often caused grief in the lives of many.

HAS FAITH IN YOUTH
He spoke highly of the youth of the present day, saying he had by no means lost faith in it. Let young people criticize the church, he wished, but let them do so in a constructive manner, and he would be glad to hear of their criticisms.

During his talk, the speaker referred to his meeting Dr. W. G. Wilson during sessions held in the Old Church when he was a member of the committee to restore to that body an organization of great strength.

Dr. Wilson moved a vote of thanks to the speaker at the close of his address. He spoke of Mr. Findlay's connections with the church, his residence in Edinburgh, the Glencairn parish, and told of his appointment to the Church of Scotland chaplaincy at Cairo and his present position as convener of the colonial committee.

George Gordon presided and Fred Robins and Miss Jean Menzies conducted devotional exercises. Solos were rendered by Mrs. H. W. Wilson, Rev. O. M. Sanford, president of the British Columbia Conference, introduced the speaker, Rev. J. M. Findlay, M.A.

Following the main address, over 150 young people participated in a social period. Malvern Humphries sang a solo with Miss Dorothy Morton accompanying him. Announcement was made by Fred Robins of the special youth week in the church, planned for October 19 to 21, and sponsored by the Interdenominational Young People's Committee of Greater Victoria.

Rev. J. M. Findlay left for Vancouver on the night boat and will address the Canadian Club of that city to-day. He will also speak at the Victoria Hotel, Winnipeg, Toronto and Ottawa.

Africa, the British delegation ought to go there by ship.

"Where is that dancing floor we read of?" I asked.

"Why, this must be it," he said. "Let's try it!"

We did. I can therefore testify to the stability of one section of the ill-fated ship.

BRANCKER'S MEMORY
In 1924, when a party of members of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association visited England, the R.A.F. met on a special show. Kenning for them. I remember meeting the R.A.F. Sefton Branker, director of civil aviation of the Air Ministry. He asked us to dine at his home and we did so. He must have had a good memory for faces, for at the dinner given to us on June 6 last by the United Kingdom Press in the wonderful surroundings of the Royal Academy of Arts, he approached me and said he remembered seeing me somewhere. He admitted modestly that he was "in the flying business."

He was another brilliant air administrator whose loss is an Empire catastrophe. There are many others in the ruin of R-101. Lord Thomson was eager to see a boy who, according to his plan to sail on this voyage to India. He and his brilliant companions have gone the way of a great company who, in peace or war, have served the Empire and their fellowmen.

It is difficult to picture that stately ship crashed and burned in France. Yet from France, through Canadian lips, did there not come, some years ago, a message and a challenge to "carry on?" Britain will carry on!

WOMAN GIVEN VERDICT AGAINST STREET RAILWAY

Mrs. M. I. G. C. Key Receives $30,150 Damages From B.C.E.R. in Vancouver

Vancouver, Oct. 7.—Meeting in Vancouver to-day to hear thirty-two appeals, the Court of Appeal handed down judgments in nine cases which were argued at Victoria in June. Mrs. Mildred I. Graham Campbell Key, 2500 West Forty-third Street, succeeded in retaining a verdict of $30,150 which a Supreme Court jury awarded her against the B.C. Electric Railway Company for the death of her husband, a two-year-old daughter and for her own injuries in an automobile accident here on the evening of December 31 last. The verdict included $15,000 for Mrs. Key's injuries, and $35,000 for the death of her husband. The British Columbia Electric Railway Company's appeal was dismissed.

With Mr. Justice McPhillips, dissenting, the Court of Appeal dismissed an appeal of Humphrey H. Jones of Victoria, who acted against Samuel Ryder of England failed in Supreme Court. Jones claimed $8,000 rent money. The case involved a $5,000 acre estate near Brookville on the Kootenay Valley Railway. The property belonged to Ryder, who had taken it over from his previous owner, Jones. There was a hotel situated on the estate. Jones concerned rent money from the hotel, whether the money belonged to Jones or Ryder.

The judgments rendered by the court were: Esquimalt Waterworks, re Taxation Act, allowed, Mr. Justice McPhillips dissenting.

DEMENTED MAN SLAYS FAMILY

New Bedford, Mass., Oct. 7.—John M. Robinson, thirty-seven, believed to have been demented, killed his wife and three children and probably fatally injured another before killing himself in his home here last evening. The children's throats had been cut with a razor and their heads beaten in with a hammer.

The dead children were: John William, twelve; Joseph Walter, six; and Guy Francis, two. Genevieve, his three-year-old daughter, was found unconscious and taken to St. Luke's hospital, where her name was placed on the danger list.

PLANES SWEEP SKY AS BODIES ARE SENT HOME

MISTAKEN FOR TWO
Officially, at least, the number of those who died in the disaster has been settled. Air Commander F. V. Holt, in charge of British investigation of the crash, yesterday announced that the bodies of the bodies from the pine shells to oaken caskets, found that two pine shells held what were believed to be the bodies of the two men, previously identified as two corpses.

The body, badly burned, had fallen apart when retrieved from the wreckage and had been mistaken for two. The discovery made it appear that only forty-six persons died originally in the crash. There were eight survivors, of whom one died yesterday. The total fifty-four, conforming with the Air Ministry's total of fifty-four aboard ship.

The discovery apparently disposed of the theory of a stowaway aboard, which police, unable to explain the "extra body," believed yesterday to have been the case. The ruins were no further clue to significance of a woman's burned shoe, with buckle attached, which was found in the debris. It was suggested it might have been the main of a romantic adventure carried by one of the crew or passengers.

FIVE IDENTIFIED
Five bodies have been identified, all those of members of the crew. They are: Assistant Coxswain W. A. Potter, Rigger E. G. Rudd and Engineers R. Blake, W. H. King and S. E. Scott. Identification of the remains probably will prove impossible, the British Government has suggested to families of the victims that the bodies be buried in the ship's coffin, probably at Cardington. Interment will be governed until answers are received to the government's request, but a memorial service will be held Wednesday at St. Paul's Cathedral, London.

The Franco-British investigation of the tragedy proceeded to-day, with investigators searching for the log of the ship. All a British expert would say as to findings thus far was that the investigation probably would be long and extremely complex. Although no contributing loss of the ship to the alone, Commander Holt said it was probable that the antimeridian functioned imperfectly at the time of the crash.

board has a Frenchman in the chair, Italian and an American.

DONATE BY FOMMAGE
Rather interesting is the basis on which contributions to the bureau are determined. Each member state contributes on the basis of its floating shipping tonnage, the largest donation, therefore, being made by Great Britain, with the United States second.

In its secretary-general, the bureau has a man of world-wide knowledge and ability.

"I have done hydrographic survey work in nearly every part of the globe," he remarked. "Back in '98, I remember, we surveyed the Lion's Gate and Vancouver Harbor."

Commander Spicer-Simson was in charge of the first triangulated survey of the Upper Yangtze River, and was also in charge of the first survey of the Yangtze River.

INTO UNCIVILIZED COUNTRY
"The one trouble with survey work is that usually you have to go to an uncivilized and uncivilized country. Otherwise it would have been surveyed long ago."

There is a certain amount of adventure in penetrating country which civilization has not reached, but it becomes monotonous after a time and one is glad to get back to the lights of the city.

Commander Spicer-Simson has been in the city three weeks and before he departs on October 20 will give two addresses here. Thursday night at the Shrine Hall, he will speak on "The Expedition to Lake Tanganyika," a voyage of Central Africa which was his first voyage. The following Thursday, he will speak in Vancouver, Regina, Winnipeg and several other large centres.

Major Sargent May Head New Scottish Unit

Second Battalion of Canadian Scots to Have Headquarters at Nanaimo

Major Sargent may be promoted to Lieut.-Col. and Command of Unit

Authorization of the second battalion of the Canadian Scottish Regiment, with headquarters at Nanaimo, and promotion of Major David Roy Sargent to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel in command of the new unit, is reported to-day.

The new unit will have four companies, located respectively at Nanaimo, Duncan, Courtenay and Saanich.

Major Sargent was adjutant and second-in-command of the 1st Battalion prior to his departure for Nanaimo, where he is the district traffic manager for the Vancouver Island Coach Lines Limited.

A Canadian by birth, Major Sargent was born in Campbellford, Ont., and was associated with the Merchants' Bank of Canada at a number of prairie cities prior to the Great War. He enlisted as a private in Saskatchewan at the outbreak of war, joining the 5th Battalion, with which he earned a commission in 1918.

At the conclusion of the war he resumed banking associations, having been manager of the Government Street branch of the Merchants' Bank until it was absorbed by the Bank of Montreal. After two years' service with the latter organization he was in business for himself for a number of years.

A keen student of military tactics and strategy, Major Sargent has three years ago graduated from the Military Staff College after attending special courses at Barce Camp, Calgary.

Major Sargent last year married Miss Kathleen Jackson of Victoria, the wedding at the United Church being the first military wedding held under the auspices of the Canadian Scots.

Press Comment On Air Disaster

By THOS. CHAMMON
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

When general readiness to await patiently the findings of the court of inquiry into the cause of the disaster, the airship colony after attending special courses at Barce Camp, Calgary.

Major Sargent last year married Miss Kathleen Jackson of Victoria, the wedding at the United Church being the first military wedding held under the auspices of the Canadian Scots.

The Daily News, which is not generally on the hunt for scapegoats, explained the airship had lapsed into silence after its earlier commendable enterprise in publishing the details of the airship's personnel. "Many people are asking why in an experimental flight there should have been more than the absolute minimum of persons aboard," The News said. "It was wise and prudent to collect so many high officials and technical experts, risking so many eggs in one basket?"

The Daily Mail asked why, with such meteorological service as the Air Force possesses, the R-101, was ever allowed to start for India under stormy conditions, or why she was not immediately recalled when the storm broke. Like other papers, The Mail noted the airship was flying extremely low. "The voyage of every airship hitherto noted as a gamble with death, on this particular voyage the dice appear to have been loaded—on the evidence so far disclosed—against the ship's company, by disregard of the weather element." The Mail said. "But the first necessity is to know the facts."

The Daily Telegraph suggested that after the inquiry into the cause of the present disaster there should be a non-political investigation to boldly face the question whether it is worth running on with airships. "At the moment the feeling is naturally against the airship, but it is based on the tragic depression of the hour, and the disappointment of the past," The Telegraph added.

Several newspapers published special editorials conveying the country's opinion on Central Africa which was his first voyage. The following Thursday, he will speak in Vancouver, Regina, Winnipeg and several other large centres.

HEAVY TRAFFIC ON B.C. ROADS, MINISTER SAYS

Hon. Nels Lougheed Gives Statistics on Highways of Province

Vancouver, Oct. 7.—During the average day of sixteen hours two motor vehicles passed a given point on British Columbia's main highways every minute during the present season—more than 2,000 automobiles, trucks and buses a day—and on some more popular roads the daily average ran as high as 7,672.

Such was the information divulged by Hon. N. S. Lougheed, Minister of Public Works, in the course of an address to the transportation bureau of the Board of Trade at a luncheon in Hotel Vancouver to-day.

Packing his talk with interesting statistics which show that highways are among the province's best money earners, the Minister dealt comprehensively with the work of his department and the returns which highways bring to all classes of citizens.

He showed that the daily average on the Pacific Highway at New Westminster Bridge, a bottle-neck which must be relieved by new bridges, is 7,672 vehicles, with a maximum daily of 13,819. On the Island Highway at Nanaimo the daily average is 2,656, with a maximum daily of 3,318. Pitt River bridge bears a daily traffic of 1,528 vehicles, with a maximum of 9,129.

British Columbia's annual highway bill, the Minister continued, is approximately $5,000,000, of which seventy-five per cent is paid by direct taxation. He emphasized the benefits which accrue to the whole community for the maintaining twenty-five per cent taken from general revenue.

ROAD COSTS
During ten years from 1921 to 1930 the province spent: On maintenance, $19,123,000; on construction, $32,388,000. During the years 1929 and 1930 maintenance amounted to $4,350,000, and construction approximately $14,000,000. Revenue, including that applied to municipalities, amounted to $4,500,000, with a net revenue of $8,880,000.

He drew comparison between the highway situation in 1929 and 1930. In 1929 the value of highways and bridges was $42,538,000, with a direct return of $2,022,000 or 4.75 per cent. In 1930 the value was $69,037,700 with direct return of $4,500,000 or 6.5 per cent.

B.C. TRAFFIC GREAT
Highway officials counted more than one-third of an million vehicles on the highways of the lower mainland during the season from May to September of this year. Of these 10.6 per cent bore foreign license plates. The average car travel more than half a billion miles a year and use 40,000,000 gallons of fuel. Over each of the 23,500 miles of roads and streets they average seventy cars a day. The automobile payroll, including garages, transport companies, filling stations and allied businesses, amounts to $4,536,000 annually.

"If those who suffer from indigestion, gas, wind or flatulence, stomach acidity, or sourness, gastric catarrh, heartburn, etc., would take a teaspoonful of pure Bismarck Magnesia in half a glass of hot water immediately after meals, they would soon find they were ever afflicted with stomach trouble, and doctors would have to look elsewhere for patients." In explanation of these words a well-known New York physician, stated that most forms of stomach trouble are due to stomach acidity and fermentation of the food contents of the stomach combined with indigestion. The supply to the stomach. Hot water increases the blood supply and Bismarck Magnesia, a mild and safe laxative, relieves the stomach. In either tablets or powder, instantly neutralizes the excessive stomach acidity and stops food fermentation. The combination of the two, therefore, being so successful and so safe, and being so pleasant to the taste, is a most reliable and effective remedy for indigestion. (Adv.)

No Home and no Friends

An all too common occurrence in the police courts is the sentencing of a helpless old man for vagrancy.

"You see me here—a poor old man, As full of grief as age; wretched in both"

He had money at one time. He earned good wages. He had his chance as other men had. But, repeatedly, any little surplus he managed to save was swept away.

Not at all a surprising condition when statistics show that 97 out of 100 men are still dependent on their daily wages or upon charity for support when they are 65.

Can you look ahead with confidence to your financial condition when you reach 65?

Deposit a small sum each year on an Imperial Endowment Policy and it will pay you a guaranteed monthly pension to keep you in comfort and independence after you are 65. Or it will provide a monthly income for your family should death call you early.

Sought Reduction In Motor Tax When Gas Duty Went Up

Good Roads League Feels Gasoline Tax Hitting British Columbia, Not Tourists; More Highways Sought; Alaska Road Project Considered; Green Timber Destruction Deplored; Make Suggestions for Second Narrows Bridge.

Kelowna, Oct. 7.—Commendation and disapproval of former and present provincial governments of British Columbia in their actions on the increase in the gasoline tax and for inaction in not taking steps to prevent destruction of the green timbers, were expressed by J. J. Johnston of New Westminster, president of the Good Roads League of British Columbia in his address to delegates of the fourteenth annual convention here.

"There are several matters of interest to our league upon which I wish to say a few words; one of the most important of which is the gasoline tax. SOUGHT LOWER MOTOR TAX

"You will remember that at our last convention, I embodied in my annual address the suggestion that our league and the people of British Columbia would acquiesce in the imposition of a further advance of 2 cents to the 3-cent tax already in vogue, if the government would lower the tax on motor vehicles.

"Many public bodies of the Province urged a reduction in motor licenses tax if an advance in the gas tax was to be made. But we were doomed to disappointment.

"It was then thought that the increase of 2 cents per gallon would hit tourists the heaviest. But has it worked so?

"I have spoken to several gas dealers on the Pacific Highway as to how this increase has affected the tourist and have been informed that when the tax was only 3 cents the tourist would buy anywhere from five to ten gallons on entering British Columbia. Now, these tourists take on a full supply of gas at the United States border, before entering Canada and only what they require in British Columbia to tide them over.

"One dealer told me that it is no uncommon occurrence for an American tourist to purchase one or two gallons—just sufficient to take them across the border, where formerly they would purchase a much larger amount.

"As I view the Canadian people have been hit the hardest—something that was never intended by the Provincial Government. It is true we willingly agree to large expenditures for roads, and for these we pay without much murmur; but why make us pay both going and coming?

"If doubt if there is a province in the whole of Canada where the people pay their way more cheerfully than in British Columbia. For that reason it seems to me that if the objects of the gas tax are not being attained, some alternative must be found to make the whole question more equitable.

ROAD APPROPRIATIONS

"Since we last met, the government has asked and has been granted by Parliament, a vote of $8,000,000 for road development throughout B.C. There was little opposition to the granting of such a huge sum. During the last few years I have been your president I have pointed out to the various governments in British Columbia that the people were willing to pay for the building of new roads and maintaining existing highways, for the reason that good roads are an all-important subject in which the people are vitally interested.

"To the government, I would say, give us good roads and the people of British Columbia will be happier and contented.

"It seems to me that good progress has been and is being made by the Provincial Government in building new roads and highways. From my knowledge of local expenditure, I would say the government is doing its best to meet demands of the people.

BENNETT GAMBLER PROSPERITY ON PERSONAL THEORY

Time Will Be Effective Critic of Tariff Policy, Says W. Hanbury, M.P.

Vancouver, Oct. 7.—"Time will be the effective critic of Premier Bennett's new tariff policy," said Wilfrid Hanbury, Liberal M.P. for Burrard, on his return yesterday from Ottawa.

"Mr. Bennett has gambled the prosperity of Canada on his own personal theory. This venture represents his own personal ideas, in which he is perfectly sincere. But it was apparent that nobody was consulted and no criticism was possible for two reasons. One was the time limit, the other was the fact that comment had to go into the realm of theory. Mr. Bennett's theory was that his plan would work. There was not much profit in setting one theory against another."

While predicting many amendments would be necessitated at the regular session of parliament in the new year to rectify manifest errors in the hasty programme put through in September, Mr. Hanbury said that effective criticism of the policy could not be made until perhaps 1932, by which time there would be statistical records available showing the actual result.

While he had little to say about the unemployment fund and the dump duties Mr. Hanbury suggested that since it was probable that not half the $20,000,000 would ever be expended, the chief value of the measure in inspiring confidence would have been accounted for by making the sum $30,000,000.

He also said that the chief fault with the dumping clause amendments was that practically the whole tariff making powers for Canada were placed in the hands of one man, who could make or break any industry over night.

U.S. SEEKS NO DOMINATION, BUT ONLY DEFENCE

Hoover Says Kellogg-Briand and London Pacts Are Momentous Victories

Boston, Oct. 7.—The Kellogg-Briand Pact and the London Naval Treaty were depicted as two "momentous victories on the road to peace" by President Herbert Hoover yesterday, in addressing the twelfth annual convention of the American Legion here.

"By limiting the naval constitution of the United States, although obtaining parity with Great Britain, we have given a demonstration to the world that we seek no domination but only adequate defence," the President declared.

Taking as his text the ideals expressed in the Legion's constitution which he saw adopted in France in 1919, Mr. Hoover said the "realization of your ideal to promote peace and goodwill through active citizenship is the greatest guaranty of its continuance."

Foreign beliefs that a "new imperial power intent upon dominating the destinies and the freedom of other peoples" has been set up this country as a result of American economic postwar expansion were frowned upon by the President, who said:

"We know there is no financial, traditional or military imperialism in the American heart. We know, in fact, that we have opened the door of a new social and economic system, by which the world's own borders we shall create the conquest of poverty without exploiting other nations."

"But as wrong as these fears may be, it becomes our first duty to show by our every act, not alone by our Government, but by our citizens, that our guide is justice and that confidence may be reposed in that sense of justice."

President Hoover told the convention that while nearly half of the world was in a state of unrest or revolution, the peace of the American Republic had never stood more assured than at this moment.

Mr. Hoover emphasized one way of maintaining this tranquility was through a quickened interest in the obligations of citizenship—respect for and proper enforcement of the law, goodwill toward other nations and discharge of national duty at the ballot box.

BUY AT HOME

THE BEST WAY TO BRING ABOUT A greater demand for Canadian-made goods is to appeal to the reason and best interests of the consumers and support the appeal with the general, but incontrovertible, statement that even a ten per cent greater demand for the domestic article would provide employment for thousands more Canadians and put in circulation in Canada the very large number of dollars that at present are sent out of the country.

Next week has been set aside as "Prosperity Week," the chief object being to impress upon the public, in the most convincing manner possible, the important part the individual may play in making it a success. The stores of Victoria, for instance, stock Vancouver Island products, British Columbia products, and Canadian products generally. They also stock large quantities of foreign products that compete with the Canadian commodities. It is the wholesalers' business to supply the retailer with what he requires; the retailers naturally consult only the demands made upon them by their customers—the consumers.

The point thus boils down to this: Do the consumers, when they go into a store in this city to do their shopping, stop to think whether the articles they require, all or part of them, are produced locally, or in British Columbia, or in any other part of the Dominion before they complete their purchases? We think some do; but it is likely that many seldom give it a thought. The retailer is not to be blamed for refusing to stock goods not in popular demand. But he loses no time in satisfying his customers as soon as he is shown that their tastes and desires have changed.

To be a success, of course, the "buy-at-home" movement must go forward on a co-operative basis. A responsibility rests upon the manufacturer, if he wants more business, to produce an article that will compete in price and quality with the imported article; and when he is sure of that the question of salesmanship intervenes. He can talk to the public about it by using effective advertising. A responsibility then rests upon the consumer to give the domestic product the preference. That is the way to insure an immediate increase in farm and factory production—more employment, more wages, and more money for circulation, while everyone would share in the prosperity that would follow.

Especially at this time, therefore, when a general condition is having a depressing effect upon the economic life of the peoples of many countries, there is much the people of Canada may do to make every week a "Prosperity Week." But the responsibility is fairly their own. If they decide to accept it, it will pay them. If they ignore it, they should not grumble if there are not as many dollars around as they would like to see.

BEWARE OF FIRE

EVERY YEAR THE PUBLIC OF THIS country is given a detailed statement of the loss of lives and property during the preceding twelve months. Canada's bill for 1929 was 223 lives and $47,000,000. The forest fire account is not included in this.

This is known as the annual "Fire Prevention Week." All over the country literature has been scattered by the Dominion Fire Commissioner at Ottawa. In the main it differs very little from that which has been used in other years. The advice it contains, however, is just as sound as ever it was. The unfortunate truth is that not sufficient people follow the instructions. The loss represented by the yearly ash heap does not seem to grow very much less. And the death toll continues to be the most serious part of the business.

Some of the warnings contained in the official literature are so simple and sensible that they almost seem unnecessary to repeat year after year. Yet the continual ignoring of them is the cause of many a fire which results in serious life and property loss. Here are a few of them:

Keep waste paper, packing material, and other rubbish cleaned up, and take it out of the building daily if possible.

Make frequent personal inspection to locate and remove fire dangers.

Use safety matches (scratch on the box) only, and keep supply in metal receptacle.

See that your electric wiring is standard, and be careful in using devices. Turn off current before leaving room.

Be sure that chimneys and smoke pipes are reasonably clean and in repair before starting fires.

Don't allow children to play with matches.

Don't throw away lighted matches, cigars, or cigarettes.

Don't go into dark closets, bedrooms, or cellars, using matches or candles to light your way.

Don't use coal oil, benzine or naphtha in lighting fires, or to quicken a slow fire—it may result in death.

Don't use gasoline or benzine to clean clothing near an open flame, light or fire.

All that is required—and it has been said countless times—is ordinary precaution. Nobody should be guilty of taking a chance where fire might result. Fire is a useful and necessary servant, but a painful and costly master. Be on the safe side by being more than ordinarily careful under all circumstances—in the home, in the workshop, or out of doors. It will pay.

A DEFENCE OF FREE TRADE

ALTHOUGH THERE ARE INDICA- tions that eventually a moderate amount of protection will be given to some of Great Britain's languishing industries, the free traders apparently do not propose to take it lying down, if an article by Mr. J. A. Hobson, in The Nineteenth Century, is any criterion. He does not agree at all that because protectionism is practiced by many other countries, Britain's policy of free imports is invalidated. Admitting that his country would have gained more if other nations had followed its example, as Cobden expected them to, Mr. Hobson says "because they will not admit our goods freely . . . by no means follows that we should gain by refusing free access to theirs."

This writer, obviously of the old Manchester school, considers it a foolish and expensive policy to tax the consumers by a tariff which keeps out some cheaper goods, and raises the price, not only of those admitted from outside, but also of the home products, for the benefit of the producers of these latter. His view is that it is as important to buy well as to sell well, though the superior organization of the producing over the consuming interests obscures this truth. "We let in the foreigner's goods," he proceeds, "not for his advantage, but for ours, because the policy of free imports adds to the total value of wealth at our disposal."

Mr. Hobson ridicules the widespread alarm that the foreigner dumps much of the fruits of his labor in Britain without taking payment in the fruits of British labor—the only way in which payment can be made. "If he gives more labor than we give in return," he argues, "so much the better for us and the worse for him. In a new-made world" organized on a basis of equitable exchange this economy may be superseded. But in such a world "a better apportionment of the products to the workers in every country would furnish so much larger a volume of demand in the national market that the surplus available for export would be restricted, and their price would be higher than at present."

Until such an organization of world resources is available, Mr. Hobson concludes, each nation will find it advantageous to buy what it needs in the widest market.

AFTER THE ELECTION

AT THE OPENING OF THE IMPERIAL Conference in London the other day Premier Bennett is reported as having said:

In the past the Imperial Conference has had before it problems of vast importance and supreme intricacy and has successfully disposed of them. But in my view at least, there have never been presented to it for solution questions of such urgency and such basic consequence to the economic welfare of the empire as those which now arise. We meet at a time of industrial depression, falling prices, slackening of trade and diminution of revenue and in a time of rising unemployment. This situation is world-wide and, while some countries know it only in a modified degree, all are equally concerned in finding a cure for it.

The Prime Minister went on to say that the factors which once controlled the course of international trade and commerce had given place to others. How the present unhappy state might be regarded as a manifestation of a change into a condition of world affairs it was, perhaps, profitless at the moment to inquire. But "the facts alone concern the conference; they are plain and have to be faced."

On the hustings during the election campaign the depressed state of Canada's business, according to Mr. Bennett, had nothing to do with any world condition at all. There were many unemployed in Canada because of the policies pursued by Mr. Mackenzie King.

In the imperial atmosphere, however, Mr. Bennett apparently realizes that campaign platitudes do not count for much. As he says, "this situation is world-wide," so that ought to let the King government out.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

THE NATIONAL HIGHWAY

The Saskatoon Star-Phoenix

Ontario newspapers assume that the link now lacking north of the Lakes will be supplied at the expense of the Dominion. Other provinces, which have supplied complete trunk highways at their own expense, will wish to know what it is to be done for them if Ontario is to receive so substantial a favor from the Dominion Treasury as it anticipates. Ontario is the richest of the provinces and should be able to build its own roads at least as well as Manitoba and Saskatchewan. If the road along Lake Superior is to be built with federal funds, the other eight provinces will demand equivalent contributions to their own highway expenses, having due regard to population and area.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE

The New York Herald-Tribune

When the president of the American Federation of Labor publicly pronounced his malediction on compulsory unemployment insurance it is time for those of us who are not immediately involved in the controversy to rub our eyes. Union labor leaders, one would suppose, would be the last to declare themselves against this policy of state aid to the unemployed. But it should take very little reflection to realize that the more society is prepared to do to ameliorate the lot of the wage earner, the less dependent he becomes on the efforts toward the end of his trade organization. If the State will guarantee him a living wage, it is natural for him to ask, should he continue to pay dues to a union which can promise him little if anything more?

A THOUGHT

Give instruction to a wise man and he will be yet wiser; teach a just man, and he will increase in learning.—Proverbs 1:5.

He gains wisdom in a happy way who gains it by another's experience.—Plautus.

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

The Victoria Daily Times, October 7, 1905

"Our work has been mostly boat work this season," said the police officer, who received a Times reporter this morning at the gang plank of the survey vessel Egeia, which arrived in port yesterday.

On her trip to Vancouver yesterday morning the C.P.R. steamer Princess Victoria created no small amount of enthusiasm among her passengers. She made the trip from Brockton Ledge to Brockton Point in three hours and twenty minutes. Better time has never been made on the route. She was off Brockton Ledge at 7:52 o'clock and opposite Brockton Point at 11:13 o'clock. These two places are mentioned because given on the one the bell for full speed ahead to give while off the other the bell for slow speed is rung.

A meeting of the streets, bridges and sewers committee was held last evening. In the absence of Mayor Barnard, Alderman Goodacre presided.

Several tons of machinery for the Britannia Smelter at Crofton arrived this week.

Loose Ends

A perfidious attack is made on this column by a viper which it had nourished in its bosom—a useful movement gets under way—and a bright suggestion is made.

By H. B. W.

IT WAS not to be expected, I suppose, that a record as accurate and as fearless as the recent account of my holidays could pass without annoying someone. I could understand some protest from the people of Duncan (where we cast worms on the Cowichan, which is sacred to fly hooks), from Courtenay (because we complained that we could get no cream there without bringing in a jar from Campbell River (because we kept a dead fish dangerously near the legal limit). But I confess I had not foreseen the outburst of indignation which has just come from the one man who should have been gratified by our kindly references. This is no less a person than the stout journalist of Vancouver, of whom I spoke so often, in his capacity of chump chop cook—in-chief of our great expedition. Be-hold, he has burst forth in his Vancouver paper in a whole column of attack on me and my article. He says it is all wrong. He affects to treat it as mere trifle and even casts doubt on the existence of the chump chop which he himself bought and paid for, and cooked on an old-fashioned grill beside the murmuring waters of the Cowichan. Well, perfidy cannot go much further than that.

BUT HOW foolish for him to break from cover like this, under his own initials and all. If he had only kept a discreet silence no one would have known that it was he who accompanied me on my holidays. No one would have known that he was stout. He might have escaped being publicly recognized as my friend. Why, he might even have gone through life without being known as a journalist. Now, by his villainous attack on the unblemished record of this column, he has identified himself, and ruined his reputation. Well, I shall get even with him. I shall take him on my holidays again, and he will have to buy me chump chops again—and cook them, too.

MONTHS AGO, out at Summit Lake, not far from "Prince George," where the water at your feet starts to flow into the Arctic Ocean thousands of miles away. I made a promise to a charming lady. My promise, let me hasten to add, was not of romantic character. I promised merely that when she and her friends organized a little theatre movement in Victoria, the tremendous weight of this column would be thrown solidly behind it. I made no more of the project until the other day when, in the cathedral of the theatre, I was invited to join the Mimes and Maquers Guild. This is the rather formidable and yet charming name for the little theatre movement in Victoria, and the choice of it speaks for the imagination, faculties and cultural background of those who are organizing it. A mime, you will find if you look it up in the dictionary, as I have just done (for my idea was very vague on the subject) is "a comic Greek and Roman play, representing real persons and events," but it also applies loosely to actors generally. Maquers are not discussed in my dictionary at all, but it is a musical word, full of poetry. Altogether the Mimes and Maquers Guild is a name which I find very delightful, but I am not surprised, for the lady who discussed the project with me at Summit Lake is by nature and accomplishment a poetess of rich imagination.

WELL, ANYWAY, there is nothing that I can imagine more deserving of support from this city, The little theatre movement seems to be the only hope of the legitimate stage in our day. The talkies have everywhere, or almost everywhere, driven the drama from the stage, and however fervently you may worship in the cathedral of the cinema you cannot look upon the present situation without distress. The talkies are a wonderful thing, no doubt, and seem to be getting more wonderful all the time; but to say that they have replaced the living person on the stage is just equal to saying that pictures by landscape painters, however exquisite, can take the place of scenery. Motion pictures and the legitimate stage are two different things, and I have sufficient faith in our civilization to believe that some day they will operate side by side with equal success.

MEANWHILE THE little theatre movement is a worthwhile thing. In Vancouver it has been a rather remarkable success and everyone goes to see its periodical plays. It has produced some excellent actors and it has presented many plays of intelligence which you are not likely to find elsewhere. Victoria, which secretly likes to assume an air of culture and refinement above that of its poor neighbors, should support the Mimes and Maquers Guild and make it one of the most successful organizations of its kind in the country. That it is being conducted with rare intelligence is indicated by the fact that I have been invited to become a member, but I fear that this is due to the influence of the lady whom I met at Summit Lake and not to a recognition of my dramatic talents. Alas, my acting days are over. Whatever spectacle I make of myself will be done cold-bloodedly in this column. But I shall become an associate member (which entitles one to see the shows at bargain prices) and I hope you will, too.

I MUST ACKNOWLEDGE here some advice which I have just received regarding the condition of the Malahat Highway and its sea-sick surface. No sooner had I complained of this phenomenon a short time ago than I received from the operators of the Mill Bay ferry the sapient suggestion that if I didn't like driving over the Malahat I should travel across the Arm by the water route. For, said this jolly misanthrope, the waves on the Mill Bay ferry route (unlike those of the Malahat) are not permanent. This is a bright suggestion, but as it is twice as far around by the ferry to the Arm as it is to go by land, it is isolated spot where I want to go, it is as bright as it might be. I am hoping, therefore, that the waves of the Malahat somehow won't prove any more permanent than the permanent ones for which husbands are constantly paying the cost of renewal.

to the Editor:—In Saturday's Times appeared an article headlined "Wanted: Children Immunized From Dread Diphtheria," which is a report of an interview with Dr. D. Berman, school medical health officer for Saanich. One cannot quarrel with or criticize effectively methods which on their face appear altruistic in their motif, particularly when the posthumous of the public are not seemingly touched, but it is rather difficult to prevent people from thinking, and there can be no doubt of the desire of some to attempt to do just that. In this it is very curious that such statements and appeals rarely, if ever, come from the rank and file of the medical profession, but periodically from M. H. O's, etc., always with the assurance that it will cost nothing.

This statement is to the effect that a case of diphtheria ended fatally in Saanich, after it was diagnosed as a ordinary case. An article in the Medical Press of August 6, specifically treats of the fallacies of the orthodox methods of diagnosing this malady, and Dr. Knyvett Gordon, of the Vined Pathological Research Laboratories, and for many years superintendent of a large fever hospital, says among other things: "Many cultures of the diphtheria bacilli do not show the 'straw staining' at all, and some organisms not diphtheria bacilli, stain exactly like them, etc." And again, "the swab may have been taken from the wrong place." The taking of swabs should not be delegated to inexperienced people."

Dr. Berman would probably hesitate in making his assertions, which are contentious, were he to digested with the medical papers, and such a statement as "we have an efficient, safe and harmless method of protecting ninety-five per cent of children against diphtheria in the town of Saanich" would not be made. Are thinking people to assume that the other five per cent so treated will be sacrificed to prove the efficiency of the preventive treatment? This means a death rate of 5,000 per 100,000, which is ridiculous and unheard of. The good doctor had better not handle figures, they are two-edged swords.

The method employed by interested persons to force upon the people so-called preventive inoculations, are to say the least, startling, and would be ludicrous were it not for the many cases attained with fatal results. The latest is sky-writing, and billboard ads, to the effect that by the Behk test diphtheria will be wiped out by a certain year. Some of the most famous pathologists, themselves, be lievers in the germ theory of disease and the value of inoculations, yet deny the methods used to push their wares and warning their countrymen against these things as indicating not only "an excess of confidence, but a lack of caution and a definite deficiency of cunning."

The latest disaster is the latest on a great scale of the danger of inoculation, sixty-seven having died and fifty-three are still ill, and according to The Lancet, August 2, the latter will be in danger for many years.

It might be better to let the faddists wallow in their ignorance and the learned go hungry.

WEST COAST ROAD EXTENSION

To the Editor:—Regarding the extension of the Ocean Highway to Long Beach and what it will do for the West Coast fisherman, I would point out that on the completion of this road and fast motor transportation it will bring the fisherman's product within three hours of the Ogdan Point Cold Storage plant at a transportation cost of a quarter of a cent a pound. This fact alone will have a somewhat similar effect as the cold storage plants in Prince Rupert, viz., to increase the fishing period, eliminating the waste and creating markets for fresh fish in carload

HAS NO USE FOR
ROMANTIC HEROESHow to be a "hero" though wicked!

That seems to be the secret of Robert Montgomery's success in motion pictures. Instead of being a gallant hero, he always starts out as a villain, repents and wins the girl he first trifled with.

"I have goody-goody heroes," the young film player said recently. "People write to me and tell me how they hated me in certain pictures because of the mean way I treated the heroine.

That's music to my ears because I know I've played my role convincingly.

"The day of perfect behavior in heroes and heroines is gone. They are human now and, I think, more true to life. Even the best of us have a little bad in us too!"

Montgomery's role opposite Joan

Crawford in "Our Blushing Brides,"

now playing at the Dominion Theatre, is no exception to his novel hero conduct. He plays the part of a society lad until a tragic episode brings him to realize his love.

COMIC DRUNK ROLE*PLAYS AT CAPITOL

Very often actors find themselves classified for proficiency in particular roles, although they never intended to set themselves up as certain characters. Sometimes the character is not in keeping with what the actor thinks is his forte, but directors and contractors being the binding things they are, he must continue nevertheless.

A case in point is that of Frank Mc-

Hugh, featured in "Top Speed," First

National's musical comedy, which opened yesterday at the Capitol Theatre for a three-day run. In 1927 Mc-Hugh stumbled across the stage of the

New Amsterdam Theatre, where Flo-renz Ziegfeld's Polies was disporting itself, in what he hoped would be considered by the critics as a personable imitation of a drunkard.

The critics not only considered his drunk imitation personable but they immediately proclaimed him the very best stumbler and teetotaler in the history of drunk characterizations on the American stage. When one considers all the genuine articles McHugh has

as rivals it can be seen his imitation had to be good to stand out.

Who are the players in the all-tal-

Gilbert type. Nor yet are they Ronald men who have seen more of the therefore the cast is of peculiar interest.

Colin Clive, playing the lead in

"Journey's End," is making his screen debut, traveling from London to Holly-

the same role in the stage production.

David Manners brings a new and fresh

KEEP DOMINION

WHITE, PLEA OF*GYRO SPEAKER

Clubmen Urged to Support

Formation of Branch of

Maple Leaf Association

S. D'Arcy Carey Wants to Prevent Industries Passing

From Hands of White Men

Organization of a local branch of the Maple Leaf Association, which seeks to control the Oriental development in Canada and to keep the Dominion white, was advocated by S. D'Arcy Carey, Vancouver representative and spokesman for the association, in an address before the Gyro Club at its luncheon at the Empress Hotel yesterday. Mr. Carey referred to the rapid strides Orientals had made, increasing their influence in the Dominion, and noted several detrimental features which had arisen from this.

"This question has been handled in Australia, South Africa, and the United States, by some of the brightest minds in the nations," stated Mr.

Carey.

There are no reasons for a "hush-

-hush" policy," he added, saying that

Britain, when it had made treaties with Japan, had made no binding ties which would influence her dominions regarding Oriental immigration.

When approached to organize the move, Mr. Carey had made a thorough investigation. He learned from an educated Chinaman of Vancouver that

China would not allow white people to invade her country as the Chinese were invading Canada.

LOOPOLES

Mr. Carey noted that the Chinese exclusion act of 1923 had left several loopholes in the act. Similar holes had been found in the Japanese treaty.

It was his organization's plan to prevent these loopholes from allowing Orientals to come in.

The association wants to prevent

Oriental ownership of land in Canada.

In 1927, Chinese owned about $10,-

600,000 worth of land and had leases worth another $1,000,000. He spoke of the working methods of the Chinese,

noting that they lived far more cheaply than white men.

Referring to Mayor Malkin's statement that he would segregate the

Orientals in Vancouver, Mr. Carey stated hundreds of licenses had been granted to Chinese outside of their segregated quarters.

Japanese fishermen were also dealt with by Mr. Carey. Influential fish-men had passed from the white man's hands to those of Chinese. "Must we watch our other industries go like wise?" he asked.

Another point backed by the new organization was the institution of separate schools for Chinese.

In closing he asked the clubmen to back the organization of a local branch to carry on the Maple Leaf movement here.

Local Basketball Season Will Be Ushered In On Saturday Night

THE SPORTS MIRROR

ONE DAY late in October, 1929, a middle-aged resident of Joplin, Mo., was helping his wife accomplish her household duties when the telephone rang. It was Sam Broday at the other end of the wire. The man called to the telephone was "Gaby" Street. After a few minutes of conversation, Sam hired "Gaby" as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals for this year. "Gaby" has turned around and led his team to the National League championship, and they are now battling with the Philadelphia Athletics for the world championship.

Street is an Alabama boy. He was born in Huntsville, forty-seven years ago. Twenty-four of the intervening years he spent in the obscurity of the bush, managing, catching and slipping fingers on the boys when they refused to pay attention. For only six years out of his thirty years in baseball did he back in the big league sunlight. And four of those years he spent at the receiving end of the thin, white streak Walter Johnson hurled past American League batters. It was "Gaby," by the way, who first spoke that immortal baseball phrase, "You can't hit 'em when you can't see 'em."

Street was only sixteen when he broke in with Hopkinsville, Ky., in the Killy League. He played at Jackson, Ky., in 1900 and "Gaby" Street, among the Kentucky semi-pros.

In 1904 Cincinnati brought him to the big leagues. In the following year the Boston Braves have the black-eyed "Alabama" boy a trial, but sent him to San Francisco in 1906.

Street was sold to Washington in 1908, arriving just a year behind the fastest pitcher baseball ever knew. The late "Fongo Joe" Cantillon, famous ball player and manager of the old rough-and-ready school, was boss of the team.

Street did not have the bulk and build of the old-fashioned big league catchers, most of whom qualified for the job more by cubic inches of displacement than by agility. "Fongo Joe" looked over the young man carefully and expressed some doubts as to whether or not Gaby was stout enough to stop those shots of Walter Johnson.

Street caught only one game, however, before Cantillon was convinced. This keen-eyed young man from the south, "clung" to the "hard ones" Walter hurled in, and Cantillon liked the brusque, confident way Gaby went about his business.

One day in fact, Cantillon said that a couple of years of catching Johnson ought to make a man willing to try anything, even to the point of attempting a catch from the Washington monument.

Numerous catchers had tried to hold a ball dropped from the top of the 550-foot shaft, but they had failed. Among the old-timers who attempted the task, but were unable to retrieve the ball, were Paul Hines, Malachi Kittredge and Charley Snyder.

Gaby was not to be kidded. "I'll catch one off that monument," he told Cantillon.

One summer day in 1908 the trial was made. Two balls were dropped from the top of the towering obelisk one after another and each time Gaby missed. The fault difficulty it seemed to be in reaching under the ball as it sped earthward, gaining momentum until it reached a speed of 135 feet per second. The ball had traveled 150 feet after striking the concrete.

On the thirteenth ball, Gaby moved to a point sixty feet from the base of the monument. The little speck from the top of the monument gradually became discernible. Gaby moved this way and that, his hand reaching for the ball. A light breeze carried the speck toward the spot where Gaby made his stand.

"Flop!" the ball thudded into the glove and the sports writers scurried to the nearest wires. Gaby had turned the trick.

Professor Walter B. Pitkin, of Columbia University, has just finished writing a book. The Psychology of Achievement, in which he declares that Babe Ruth's baseball achievements are due to an amazing basal metabolism, and goes on to say that Babe, for many years, has eaten about ten meals a day, and his radiant heat is so intense that he cannot wear even the lightest underwear on the coldest day in the winter.

If Babe gets his home runs on ten meals a day, it is a good thing the major league season ended when it did, for it would be a cause for wonder how they ever managed to keep Hank Wilson so well fed, for Hank was so hot in the matter of home runs that this baseball uniform was possibly likely to burst into flames any day.

The New York World reports an unusual incident during the United States amateur golf championship at Merion recently. It happened on the fourteenth hole when the George Vole and Warrington B. McCollough two-some reached that point.

McCollough's second shot slipped off to the right of the green and landed in a patch of mud and water, the result of a leaking sprinkling hose having been left on the spot overnight. The ball was deeply imbedded in the mud, and McCollough called for a ruling.

Vole recommended that he wait for a committeeman, and presently committeemen, looking ponderous, were summoned from all directions. They all gathered about and looked at the ball very solemnly. Some of them felt the mud and seemed to find it most distasteful, but none of them would make a decision.

Finally Jess Sweetser announced that it appeared to be necessary to suggest that McCollough play two balls, the one in the mud and one dropped over his shoulder, and allow the committee to decide after that. He then got the mud-spattered ball down in two for a par, and furnished

HORNSBY'S CUBS TAKE CITY TITLE

Defeat White Sox 6 to 4 in Deciding Game For Championship of Chicago

Rally in Ninth Inning Wins Game; Cubs Players Each Get $1,235.71

Chicago, Oct. 7.—On the flagpole at Wrigley Field, where the 1929 National League championship floated during the recent season, the 1930 Chicago City title banner will fly next year.

The Cubs yesterday finished the task of retaining the title they won from the White Sox in 1928, winning their fourth victory in six games, 6 to 4, by an old-fashioned ninth inning rally.

After taking a two-run lead in the fifth, the Cubs saw the Sox tie it up and go out in front in the sixth. Rogers Hornsby's men tied it again in the eighth, but the stubborn Sox again took the lead in the same inning. The Cubs finally got organized and cracked Garland Braxton for three runs in the ninth to win the game and the series.

It was the Cub's sixth championship out of seventeen series. The series drew a total attendance of 162,918 paid, with receipts of $187,847. Each Cub and several others connected with the club, as well as Joe McCarthy, former manager of the Bruins, received $1,235.71, while active White Sox players and others got $799.34 apiece.

SOX PLAYER IN HOSPITAL

Chicago, Oct. 7.—While his teammates dispersed to their several homes to-day, Johnny Watwood, White Sox centre fielder, retired down for a three-week stay in a hospital to recover from the effects of having been struck on the head by one of Pat Malone's fast balls Sunday.

It was not believed Watwood was seriously injured when he was carried from Wrigley Field. An X-ray examination, however, revealed a three-inch fracture of the skull on the right side, just above the ear.

Watwood said he was certain Malone had not intentionally "dusted" him, saying he had "hooked" the ball against the moving background of fans in the centrefield overflow crowd.

the perfect climax by three-putting the provisional ball for a 6. After he had finished, the committee, decided that the provisional ball went, so the young man had a 6.

BLUENOSE IS AT SCENE OF TITLE RACES

Lunenburg Schooner Will Meet Gertrude L. Thebaud For Lipton Trophy

Canadian Boat Given Great Welcome at Gloucester; First Race To-morrow

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 7.—Two of the ablest and handsomest ladies of the fishing boats were in port to-day, preparing for a series of races which will see one of the other crowned queen of the North Atlantic and winner of the Sir Thomas Lipton International fisherman's challenge trophy.

They are the schooner Bluenose out of Lunenburg, N.S., skippered by the veteran, Capt. Angus Walters, and the Gertrude L. Thebaud, pride of the Gloucester fishing fleet, skippered by experienced Capt. Ben Pine.

Thursday the two schooners will go out on the high tide, over a thirty-seven and five-eighth-mile course, in the first of a series which will go to the first boat winning two races.

Bluenose arrived in port shortly before midnight Sunday night after a thirty-five-mile storm-tossed voyage down from Halifax, N.S., yesterday she came in to a dock assigned to her while whistles shrieked a welcome. City officials went aboard to welcome Capt. Angus Walters and a parade was started in honor of the invader.

DRIVING GOLF COURSE READY

Opening Ceremony at Douglas and Garbally Road To-morrow Afternoon

Adding to the list of driving and measure golf courses in operation in Victoria, another will be opened to-morrow afternoon at Garbally Road and Douglas Street, when the spacious field there will be opened as the Fairway Driving Course by Don Cameron and C. G. Walsh.

The operators have gone to considerable expense in clearing the field and constructing driving courses. There is also a green for practice of approach shots.

The fees for driving are all covered in so that poor weather will not interfere with the sport. A bucket of balls will be supplied to each player and nets have been put up as protection against hooks and slices. Players will be able to test their driving distance and an army of young caddies will be on hand to gather up the balls.

Arrangements are being completed with the B.C. Electric Company for flood lights to be installed for night play. Walter Gravlin, the well-known professional golfer, will be in charge. There will be an opening ceremony to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Gallant Fox, All Time Champion, Retired With Earnings At $327,000

New York, Oct. 7.—Gallant Fox, all time money winning champion of the turf, has been retired by his owner, William Woodward. The big three-year-old son of Sir Gallahad III will be sent to Woodward's Balmor stud in Prince George's County, Maryland.

Gallant Fox, after a mediocre record as a two-year-old, swept through all the big three-year-old stakes this season except the Travers in which he was beaten by the 100 to 1 shot, Jim Dandy. He closes his career with total earnings of more than $327,000 compared to Zev's earnings of $313,000, previous money-winning record.

Foxx Predicted He Would Break Up Game With Homer

Hero of Athletics' Victory Yesterday Over St. Louis in World Series Told His Teammates He'd Win the Game With a Circuit Clout; Homer Gave Connie Mack His Greatest Thrill of the Year; Cardinals Not Downhearted and Declare They Will Win Two Games in Philadelphia.

By Charles W. Dunkley, Associated Press Sports Writer

St. Louis, Oct. 7.—It was a snarling defiant flock of Cards that hurriedly packed their luggage yesterday after dropping a heart-breaking 2 to 0 game to the Athletics in the fifth battle of the world's series. They were one down to the White Elephants but they were not down and out by a long ways in spirit. They openly muttered defiance with Gaby Street, their manager, declaring they would certainly win two games in Philadelphia. There was no solemn, depressed air of a burial in the Card dressing room. To hear them shout, the impression prevailed that they won instead of lost yesterday.

"It was a well pitched ball game that anyone could have busted up," Street said. "And neither Grimes nor anybody else is excited about losing. We're going to Philadelphia heads up, and determined to win the next two games."

Street said he would start "Willie Bill" Hallahan, the pug-nosed Irish kid, who blanked the A's Saturday and expected that Connie Mack would counter with Robert Moses Grove.

"He'll have to pitch Grove because we can beat any one else he's got. And we'll beat him too."

Frankie Frisch, captain of the Cards, said he did not drop the ball in the eighth inning after tagging Haas at second base.

"Umpire Gelsel," Frisch bellowed, "must have been blind. I hung right on to the ball, but he made his ruling as if I couldn't change it, despite the fact he was wrong. We still feel we should have won yesterday's game, and we're going to knock the stuffing right out of 'em when we get back to Philadelphia."

Jimmy Fox, hero of the game, not only is a home-run hitter of distinction but he is a sage. During the contest Jimmy told his mates he'd win the game with a home run. He did just that.

He stepped to the plate, caught one of Grimes' high ones and directed it into the left field bleachers.

The snarling Connie Mack, the greatest thrill of the year. The sixty-seven-year-old leader of the Athletics, sitting on the bench, saw the ball sail into the bleachers, and Fox trot triumphantly home.

"My heart beat faster at that moment than

Victoria Squad Will Be Strong For First Game of Canadian Series Saturday

Coach Wilson Expecting Boys to Put Up Good Fight For League Honors

When Victoria's gridlers trot onto the Royal Athletic Park field against the Vancouver Athletic Club in the Capitals' first fixture in the Big Four Rugby League on Saturday, they will form an experienced squad for the first time since the city took up the game. The beautiful ball game, this morning stated that virtually all the old guard which blocked offensive plays last year will be back on the roster. And this year they are expected to benefit from the mistakes they made in previous seasons. The boys should hang together better and should be able to pull some defensive plays that may keep their opposition guessing. According to Coach Wilson, the big team this year is expected to be a tough struggle between Vancouver, Victoria and the V.A.C. New Westminster does not appear to be a very serious threat, the coach says. ## Connie Mack Steps In

By JIMMY THOMPSON

THE VETERAN MANAGER ON WHOM SO MUCH INTEREST IS CENTRED HAS HUNG UP MORE PENNANT FLAGS, WITH THE EXCEPTION OF JOHN MCGRAW, THAN ANY OTHER MANAGER SINCE 1900—BESIDES BEING IN ORGANIZED BASEBALL FOR 46 YEARS, 30 OF THOSE WITH THE ATHLETICS.

When the smoke of the present world series blows away, Connie Mack, veteran leader of the Philadelphia Athletics, will have seen thirty consecutive years as leader of the "A's." and will have completed forty-six years in organized baseball. This season the Athletics won the pennant for the eighth time under his management. They won it first in 1902, just one year after he assumed charge of the club. Three years later the "A's" again finished the season at the top of the pennant ladder, but failed to take the series from the New York Giants. This second series will be remembered by the consistent ball fans for the pitching exploits of the late Christy Mathewson, who shut out the American League leaders in three of four defeats they suffered in that series. Mack's men again became American and World champions in 1910, 1911 and 1913. They again won the league championship in 1914, after which Connie suffered his heaviest defeat in a world's series when he was beaten four straight by the Boston Braves. After this spectacular trimming Mack broke up his famous $100,000 infield and began to rebuild his team. Little did he realize that it would take him fourteen years to get back to his old pennant-winning position. For seven years his team finished in the cellar, and not till 1923 did they rise to sixth place. In 1924 they were fifth, and in 1925 they were second to the Senators. They dropped back again in 1926 and in the two following years finished second to the Yankees. Then came the thrill for which Connie had waited and built so long. In 1929 he again won the pennant and the World Series. Connie has now eight flags under his belt, and stands second only to the mighty McGraw of New York, who still retains his championship as a pennant-winner with ten flags to his credit.

STREET AND MACK BOTH HAVE FAITH

Two Managers of Rival World Series Clubs Confident Teams Will Win

Cards and A's on Way Back to Philadelphia; Hallahan Will Pitch To-morrow

By Brian Bell.
Associated Press Sports Writer.
En route to Philadelphia from St. Louis, Oct. 7.—Athletics of Philadelphia and Cardinals of St. Louis to-day were well on their way back to Philadelphia to resume their world's series battle to-morrow on the American League grounds. Both teams had reason to be satisfied with their three-day stay in National League territory. The Cardinals won two games to get them back in the series, while the Athletics captured the final clash in Missouri in a thrilling battle of pitchers and started home a game ahead and only one decision away from another world championship. The Cardinals left Philadelphia late Thursday night two games behind the Athletics and they return only one in arrears, but still their task is the harder. The Athletics have to win only one more to repeat their 1929 triumph. The Cardinals must win two straight. Manager Mack to-day made no forecast on the ultimate end of the series except to say that he had faith in his "boys." "That was a great game closing our stay in St. Louis," said the veteran manager, "a game of superb pitching and certainly it must have been a very interesting one to watch, even though the result, of course, did not please our St. Louis friends." "GABBY" CONFIDENT.
The "gabby" general of the Cardinals, weather beaten Charles Street, always, was optimistic to-day. "We can win two straight from the Athletics," he said, "and this we will do. We have done it already in this series and we can do it again. Of that I am positive." In the sixth game of the series at Sube Park to-morrow "Wild Bill" Hallahan will pitch for the Cardinals and Earnshaw or Grove, or both, will do a turn for the house of Mack.

Bobby Jones On Golf

In line with what I have said about the fundamentals of golf in which all good players are alike let us consider the position of the player at address. There are similarities here which will surprise one who has been accustomed to merely watching the player rather than to observing the details of his movements. This position where everything is more or less at rest is the one easiest to observe. It is the first to which the beginner should give attention. It is a difficult thing to swing the club correctly but it ought not to be a hard job to assume a correct position from which to start. Taking first the stance, the position of the feet is all we have to consider. At first I think the player should give himself little concern about placing of his feet with respect to the ball, regarding this feature to the extent of learning the correct stance before attempting to address the ball. The most important thing about the feet is to place them in such position that they will not hinder the motion of the body during any part of the stroke. This must be done whether the stance be open, closed or square, and whether the player finds himself more comfortable with his feet close together or far apart. It will be observed that the best position is without exception place the right foot so that the toe points almost exactly straight to the front, at right angles to the line of play.

MAJESTIC HEADQUARTERS FOR VICTORIA

Never in select golfing company do we see a right toe pointing more than ever so slightly outward away from the ball. The left toe on the other hand, usually is turned slightly outward away from the ball, and never inward toward the ball. This is the correct position because it is the position from which it is easiest to complete the swing. With the right foot pointing almost straight ahead, a turn of the hips causes the left knee to swing back and form a splendid brace, as it must. If the foot were turned either way it would interfere with the stroke either going up or coming down simply because the motion of the leg could not conform with the hip turn if the foot were far from the proper place. Turning the right toe outward destroys the free swing brace and interferes with a free swing through the ball, turning the left toe outward prevents a full backswing by restricting the action of the left leg. When one stands naturally erect, with feet approximately twelve inches apart and each in a natural position as in walking, there is a perfect balance of the body, and a perfect facility of movement in any direction without destroying that balance. Hips and shoulders can be twisted and turned, arms swung, and the entire torso turned to either side with equal ease. This is what we are striving for in addressing a golf ball, and the positions of the feet has a great deal to do with the value of the position. The more like a natural standing position the thing can be made the better off we are. I have given a lot of space to this phase of the address and will give more to other phases. It is worth a lot of trouble if the player will manage to acquire the habit of setting himself correctly before he starts to move.

William Wrigley Will Be a "Host" TO 2,000 Jobless

Chicago, Oct. 7.—William Wrigley failed to see his Chicago Cubs become baseball champions this year, but he became a champion in his own right yesterday—champion of 2,000 jobless men who will have a warm place to sleep because of the chewing gum magnate's efforts. Wrigley, it became known, has put men to work cleaning up a building on the west side in the heart of the district long known as the "port of missing men." When it is ready, before the first snowfall, it will provide beds for 2,000 men. Wrigley will heat the building and provide food and entertainment for its occupants.

"THEY WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP"

More than 120 young people attended the meeting of the Young People's Society of the First United Church on Monday evening, when they had as their guests the Young People's Society of the Metropolitan Church and representatives from Victoria West.

Following a brief devotional service, the main speaker of the evening, Dr. J. M. Findlay of Edinburgh, was introduced by Dr. O. M. Sanford, president of the British Columbia Conference.

Dr. Findlay spoke of the union of the churches in Scotland and brought greetings to the youth of Canada, urging them to live up to the great heritage and noble traditions of their country. The future of the country lies with the young people, he said, and it is their duty to serve Canada to the best of their ability.

Dr. Findlay especially urged every young person to specialize in some branch of church work and to strive toward some goal that they might build up a great Canada in a great Empire.

Following Dr. Findlay's speech, Dr. W. G. Wilson thanked him briefly on behalf of the young people, expressing their appreciation for his interesting and inspiring address.

The musical programme rendered during the evening was greatly enjoyed, the following artists taking part: Mrs. W. H. Wilson, vocal solo; Miss Smithurst of the Metropolitan Y.P.S., piano solo; Mr. Humphries, vocal solo.

Dr. Scott of the Metropolitan Church spoke to the young people briefly, and Fred Robinson outlined the programme for the weekly Sunday night meetings, to be held at the Y.M.C.A. during the winter months. A very enjoyable evening was brought to a close by a rousing sing-song, led by the president of the First United Y.P.S., George Gordon.

LITTLE THEATRE PLAN OUTLINED

Mrs. P. M. Barr Tells Business Women of Mimes' and Masquers' Guild

An interesting review of the aims, objects and history of the Mimes' and Masquers' Guild of Victoria was given by Mrs. P. M. Barr before the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club at its luncheon yesterday.

Miss Kate McLaren presided. Mrs. Barr spoke of the Little Theatre movement in England, and recalled that after various theatrical managers had steadfastly refused to stage it, she had given it a chance through the Little Theatre, thus introducing a play which subsequently had an unprecedented success.

Vancouver had started its Little Theatre nine years ago with ten members; to-day it owned a $40,000 theatre and had been obliged to limit its associate members to 5,500. The Little Theatre had produced plays out of the ordinary, and to make their own costumes and settings, and she appealed for support of the general public in the venture.

Miss Wigley thanked the speaker, on behalf of the club. An announcement was made of the bridge party to be held at the club rooms, 1118 Langley Street, on Monday evening next, with Miss Bradshaw as convener, with Mrs. Bradshaw having charge of the refreshments.

The next business meeting of the club will be on October 20.

L.O.B.A. Meeting.—The regular meeting of Queen of the Island Lodge 209, L.O.B.A., will be held in the Orange Hall, Courtney Street, on Wednesday at 7.30 o'clock, when the second degree will be put on.

Typographical W.A.—The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to Victoria Typographical Union will be held on Thursday at 2.30 o'clock in Eagles' Hall.

COUNCIL WOMEN WOULD CENSOR FILMS STRICTLY

National Meeting Deplores Lack of Clothing on Dancers and Actresses

Hon. W. G. Martin Speaks at Niagara Falls on Child Welfare

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 7.—An address by the newly appointed Minister of Public Welfare for Ontario, Hon. W. G. Martin, in which he forecast important developments in the near future in connection with child welfare and passage of numerous resolutions for the advancement of the nation's health, marked the opening session here yesterday of the National Council of Women, attended by more than seventy-five representatives of provinces.

Establishment of an institution for girls similar to the Bowmanville Home for Boys, was forecast by Mr. Martin. He also predicted the Ontario Government might soon organize a crippled children's department.

No effort will be spared to give every child in the province a fair and equal chance to grow up into useful citizenship, he said in outlining the various proposals his department had under consideration for the benefit particularly of children who were neglected or underprivileged. He then appealed for the co-operation of the various women's organizations in the province toward making the government's humanitarian work a success.

MOVIE CENSORSHIP

One of the major resolutions passed at the business meeting was that urging provincial governments to institute a more strict censorship of moving pictures undesirable from the standpoint of public morals and educational standards. It was suggested adult actresses and female dancers be not allowed to appear in public performances with lower limbs and torso uncovered.

Another resolution asked the Dominion Government to provide financial assistance to the provinces for the establishment of county health units. Rural districts generally, it was said, are forced to rely on medical men for carrying on community health measures, and these cannot contribute a great deal of their time to this work.

Delegates were unanimous in their opinion that every province should establish a national bank to be maintained by the Federal Government.

SOVIET VICTIM MARRIED HERE

Toronto Girl Bride of Russian Who Escaped From Revolutionaries

A Russian refugee was the bridegroom in a marriage solemnized very quietly in Victoria recently, with a Toronto girl as bride, according to the following interesting item from The Toronto Star:

"A wedding of more than usual interest was that solemnized recently in Victoria, B.C., by a minister of the United Church and a priest of the Russian Church when Miss Phyllis Mary Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Moore of 161 Indian Road Crescent, Toronto, became the bride of Mr. Fedotia Alexandrovich Logvinoff, son of the late Alexander Logvinoff, whose large estate in the Ural mountains was ransacked during the Russian revolution and whose family and heirs were scattered.

"After spending two years in a German prison camp, Mr. Logvinoff escaped to Shanghai. For two years he acted as an interpreter in the British Consulate and is now in the customs department of the Chinese government at Shanghai.

"Mr. Logvinoff was a close friend of Mr. Connie Smythe in the same German prison camp during the war. After seven years of service with the Chinese government, he was given leave of absence for a year. Mr. Logvinoff came to Toronto to visit Mr. Smythe. At a party given by several Russian artists in the city Miss Moore met Mr. Logvinoff. Since then the romance has blossomed.

"The bride was attired in a lovely white, rose and blue flowered chiffon and circular flounced skirt. She wore an embroidered natural colored mohair hat and carried a bouquet of roses.

"The marriage was solemnized quietly, neither the bride nor groom having attendants. After the ceremony they visited various points of interest on Vancouver Island and later sailed for Shanghai.

PARISHIONERS GREET BISHOP

Over three hundred members of Christ Church Cathedral Parish tendered a hearty welcome to Rev. C. de V. Schofield, Bishop of Columbia, and Mrs. Schofield, who recently returned after an absence of seven months in Europe, at an enjoyable congregational social in the Memorial Hall yesterday evening.

The gathering also marked the climax of the harvest celebrations and the dedication of the new gymnasium, where the affair was held, were of an appropriate character.

The Dean of Columbia acted as chairman and his brief address of welcome to the guests of honor was supplemented by Ven. Archdeacon Laycock, who spoke on behalf of the clergy in welcoming the bishop and also took the opportunity to thank the clergy for their loyal co-operation with him during his regime as bishop's commissary.

Lindley Crest, K.C., voiced the welcome of the laity on the bishop's return from a well-earned holiday, and also spoke in appreciative terms of the untiring work of the dean in the interests of the diocese; Rev. Canon F. A. P. Chadwick for the clergy of Victoria, and J. H. Hinton for the congregation and churchwardens, added their note of welcome.

Thanking the speakers for the warmth and sincerity of the welcome, the bishop briefly reviewed the religious, industrial and political conditions in England, looking with optimism to a favorable outcome to all the problems which the old country is facing. He also made passing reference to the solemn and inspiring service held on the occasion of the reopening of St. Paul's Cathedral.

The bishop will deal fully with the Lambeth Conference at a special meeting in the Memorial Hall on Tuesday, October 21.

A musical programme which added much to the pleasure of the occasion included solos by Miss Nora Jones, Masters Philip Oliver and Philip Booth. Delectable refreshments were served, during which the parishioners supplemented the formal greetings to all the bishop and Mrs. Schofield with a more personal note of welcome.

Daughters of St. George—Victoria Lodge No. 82 of Daughters of St. George, held their regular meeting in the Harmony Hall yesterday. Sister Appleton was in the chair. It was decided to hold a whist drive after the next meeting on October 20. Members please note lodge will open at 7.30 o'clock. Cards at 8.30 o'clock. Scrip prizes will be given.

WIFE OF CHICAGO MAYOR ROBBED

Mrs. "Bill" Thompson Held Up and Jewelry Taken

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Mrs. William Hale Thompson, wife of the mayor, was robbed of jewelry of an as yet undetermined value last night. Mrs. Thompson and her chauffeur, Patrolman Patrick O'Malley, were held up by three robbers as O'Malley stopped her car in front of her Sheridan Road apartment house.

Mrs. Thompson had been at a theatre with her sister, Mrs. Florence Burkhardt, and had just taken her sister home, as O'Malley stopped the car and got out, crossing round in front to open the door for Mrs. Thompson, three men stepped up and pointed guns. One held a pistol to O'Malley's head, searching him meanwhile, as the others forced Mrs. Thompson into the shadows and took her purse and jewels.

Over three hundred members of Christ Church Cathedral Parish tendered a hearty welcome to Rev. C. de V. Schofield, Bishop of Columbia, and Mrs. Schofield, who recently returned after an absence of seven months in Europe, at an enjoyable congregational social in the Memorial Hall yesterday evening.

The gathering also marked the climax of the harvest celebrations and the dedication of the new gymnasium, where the affair was held, were of an appropriate character.

The Dean of Columbia acted as chairman and his brief address of welcome to the guests of honor was supplemented by Ven. Archdeacon Laycock, who spoke on behalf of the clergy in welcoming the bishop and also took the opportunity to thank the clergy for their loyal co-operation with him during his regime as bishop's commissary.

Lindley Crest, K.C., voiced the welcome of the laity on the bishop's return from a well-earned holiday, and also spoke in appreciative terms of the untiring work of the dean in the interests of the diocese; Rev. Canon F. A. P. Chadwick for the clergy of Victoria, and J. H. Hinton for the congregation and churchwardens, added their note of welcome.

YOUR BABY and MINE

Mrs. Meyer will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

BOTTLE BABIES MUST HAVE VITAMIN C IN THEIR DIETS

The almost universal use of orange juice in the baby's diet very early in his life comes about because of the increased number of babies who are now bottle fed, even before the sixth month. Babies who are nursed have a live food, one containing all the nutritive elements. The moment baby is put on the bottle, his food is more or less deprived of some of these live elements. This cannot always be helped, because in large cities especially the milk supply is made safer by pasteurization. Sometimes in addition to this the mother boils the milk, both of these processes robbing the milk of much of its vitamin C contents.

PREVENTS SCURVY

Citrus fruits are the richest sources of vitamin C. It is quite commonplace for a baby to be given milk in which there is lemon juice. This increases baby's ability to digest the milk because of its acidity, and in addition he gets a good supply of vitamin C. Most babies get this element in their daily orange juice or tomato juice (like-wise rich in vitamin C). When mothers understand that orange juice isn't given because their babies are constipated, but because of the vitamin C content which prevents scurvy, they are more conscientious about its use.

Mrs. E. D. S. says she has been advised that baby doesn't need orange juice until six months of age. She is not pleased with baby's diet and doesn't think it satisfying. Her baby is five and one-half months old, weighs sixteen and three-fourths pounds and gets twenty-four ounces of milk, sixteen of water, one tablespoon of milk sugar, two of cane sugar and five teaspoons of a cereal food. He takes all of his bottle and cries for more, cries a lot in daytime and cries for two hours in the middle of the night, from about four to six. He can sit alone but has no teeth.

DIET NEEDS CHANGES

You can see why the age of the baby makes no difference at all in the need for orange juice. His diet is most important, and as he is a bottle baby he must have orange juice daily. Increase the amount of milk in the formula an ounce or two, and decrease the water a corresponding amount. The cereal is more desirable when fed separately and not as part of the bottle formula. The product you are using is just a good cereal. Feed it, or any other cereal, which is well cooked, before baby's ten or six o'clock bottles. Increase the amount of sugar in the formula slightly. One and one-half ounces is about right for a baby this weight and you may find the baby better satisfied with his formula. All other information about feeding is included in our regular feeding leaflet which discusses formulas and additions to the diet from six weeks to six years. You may have this by enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Everything else is all right. Don't dream of rocking baby because he won't sleep, but change his diet so that he will.

HEIR OF KING BORIS MUST BE CATHOLIC

Says Vatican Announcement Concerning His Betrothal to Italian Princess

Rome, Oct. 7. — A statement published in the Ansa-Italo news-paper Polio D'Italia at Milan today, confirmed a declaration in the Vatican "Osservatore Romano" that nothing has been done to exempt the eventual heir to the Bulgarian throne from a Catholic upbringing.

This is regarded as an important indication of the official attitude toward the religious question in the betrothal of Princess Giovanna of Italy and King Boris of Bulgaria. The Bulgarian constitution requires that the heir to the throne be raised in the Greek Orthodox faith. It had been previously reported the Vatican had consented to this, though stipulating that Princess Giovanna and the other children must remain Catholic.

PROSPERITY WEEK BACKED BY FIGURES

Quarterly Survey Shows
Sound Reasons For Campaign Opening Soon

Victoria Declared as Prosperous as Any City on Continent

Sound reasons for backing the prosperity week idea which has been received with approval by organizations of Victoria are contained in the quarterly survey of Victoria prepared by Frank Glolma for The Monetary Times.

A sane outlook on conditions in Victoria at the present time confirms the declaration, says Mr. Glolma, in the course of his article, that Victoria is prospering more than any other community in Canada at the present time. He points out that bank clearings for September this year were $10,173,007, as compared with $11,862,145 in 1929 and $10,221,796 in 1928. It should be noted that 1928 showed a very large increase over previous years.

BUILDING
Building permits for the month of September show an improvement as compared with 1929. During last September fifty-eight permits were issued, representing a construction value of $120,565. In September last year, a total of seventy-two permits was issued, having a value of $84,875. It may be mentioned here that all of this construction was built for people who are going to use the buildings for one purpose or another when finished, and none of it as a speculation.

Recent chaotic conditions in the wheat market naturally adversely affected the future prospects of the 1,000,000-bushel wheat elevator. The elevator had, in fact, been almost entirely ignored by the trade.

Victorians, therefore, learned with real pleasure that grain will soon be shipped to the Open Point elevator. This announcement was made by officials of the Alberta Wheat Pool, following the completion of negotiations with the leasing of the elevator by the Alberta pool from the Panama Pacific Grain Terminals Limited.

It is naturally hoped that now that grain will be shipped through the elevator will, from this date on, be self-sustaining, and that in consequence the pool or other interests will build further elevators either in Victoria or on Esquimalt harbor.

MAIL CARRYING RIGHTS SOUGHT ON C.N.R. BOATS

Already a Good Service Between Here and Seattle,
Says Ottawa Letter

Superintendent at Vancouver
Asked to Report to Federal Department

The proposal for the establishment of a mail service on Canadian National steamships between Victoria and Seattle has been referred by the Federal Post Office Department to the District Superintendent of Postal Service at Vancouver for inquiry and report, directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce were notified yesterday afternoon.

"I may say," R. H. MacNabb, chief superintendent of railway mail service, wrote, "the department at present maintains at considerable cost a seven days per week each way mail service in Canadian Pacific steamers between Victoria and Seattle, with the use of additional sailings in the summer season."

"In addition to the service maintained by the Canadian Post Office Department, Seattle and Victoria exchange mails in the service maintained by the U.S. Post Office Department, so that there is a semi-daily each way service between the two cities."

"During the summer season Victoria dispatches a mail to Seattle via Canadian Pacific steamer leaving Victoria at 1 o'clock in the morning, arriving at Seattle at 7 o'clock in the morning, and receives a mail from Seattle at 9 o'clock in the morning via the U.S. service, which would appear to afford an adequate service so far as afternoon mail is concerned."

It was pointed out at the directors' meeting that the Canadian National service to Seattle in the evening provided an opening for an efficient mail service between Victoria and the Sound City. Letters posted in Victoria after 3 o'clock in the afternoon did not reach Seattle until the following afternoon. It was stated, causing considerable inconvenience in some cases.

While the communication from the post office department said there was an evening service in the summer time, the directors decided to write to the department and advise that this service operated only three months in the year and that by giving mail rights to the C.N.R. steamers, an efficient service would be provided.

CRIME ABSENCE EARNS PRAISE FOR VICTORIA

Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald yesterday congratulated Greater Victoria upon the absence of crime within the district. His Lordship suspended Supreme Court Chambers proceedings at 11 o'clock, the hour the Fall Assizes normally would have commenced, and formally called the attention of those present to the lack of necessity for assize proceedings. His Lordship announced that, in view of the absence of charges, neither the grand nor petit juries had been summoned.

Removal of Tonsils at Early Age Prevents Other Diseases

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN

Ten years ago, 1,000 children in Rochester, N.Y., had their tonsils removed at the age of five or six years. They were examined at that time and complete records of infections previous to the operation were noted.

Ten years ago, the parents of an equal number of children were recommended to have the children's tonsils removed, but the operation was not performed for various reasons.

These two groups of 1,000 children each represented children in the same schools and from the same homes, living under similar conditions.

Now, Dr. Albert D. Kalsek has looked into the records of these children, who are just of high school age, and his information affords definite evidence of the value of the operation in those children operated on for the control of certain conditions studied in both groups.

In order to make the comparison, the complaints usually associated with infection of the tonsils were tabulated, the history of infections of each child was obtained, and any physical defects in any way related to the tonsils and adenoids were recorded.

The figures show that sore throats, a common childhood complaint, does not occur as frequently or as severely in a child from whom the tonsils have been removed as in one in whom they have not been removed. Only 10 per cent of the children whose tonsils were removed had any complaint of sore throat, whereas 35 per cent of the others had such a complaint.

Frequent head colds occurred in 43 per cent of the children before operation. Ten years after the operation, 22 per cent of those operated on still have head colds, whereas 30 per cent of those not operated on have head colds.

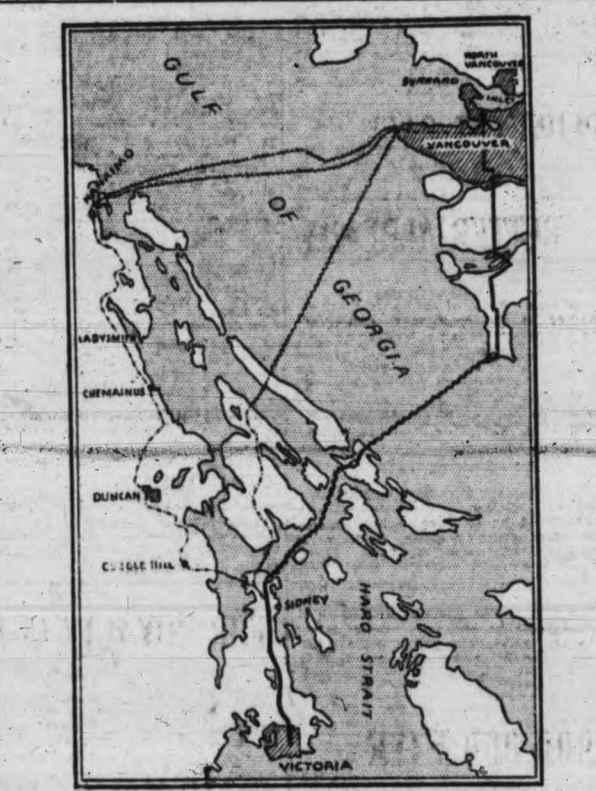

It was found that measles occurred with equal frequency in both groups of children. Measles occurred in twenty-eight cases among those children operated on, and in forty-two cases among those not operated on. Scarlet fever occurred in seventy-three cases of those operated on, and in 102 cases of those not operated on.

One of the chief reasons why the tonsils are removed is to prevent rheumatic manifestations, including St. Vitus' dance, rheumatic fever, and infections of the heart. Apparently St. Vitus' dance was not affected by removal of the tonsils, occurring just as often in those children who were operated on as in those not operated on. There was a lessened amount of rheumatic fever in the children whose tonsils had been removed and a lessened amount of infections of the heart. However, the difference in the figures was slight.

Dr. Kalsek is convinced that the removal of the tonsils influences appreciably the incidence of sore throats and renders children less susceptible to scarlet fever and diphtheria. It does not appear to be especially important for the prevention of head colds and infections of the ear, and influences unfavorably the occurrence of bronchitis and pneumonia.

The wholesale removal of tonsils, whether diseased or related to disease, is not warranted. In certain conditions they may be removed for definite effects, which experience has shown may certainly be secured. At present, the vast majority of physicians are convinced that the correct method for removal of the tonsils is complete surgical removal, rather than the use of slow destruction by electricity, or any other recently introduced method.

NEW TELEPHONE CABLE GREATLY SPEEDS SERVICE

New and old telephone cable links between Vancouver Island and the mainland. The heavy line marks the new all-cable route.

Only twelve of the new circuits are in service at the present time but others will be brought into use as needed.

FIRST ALL-CABLE TOLL LINE

Construction of the new line comprised one of the greatest long-distance jobs in the B.C. Telephone Company's history. The project involved the spanning of land and sea between Victoria and Vancouver with seventy-three miles of cable, weighing over 700 tons. It provides the first all-cable toll route in the company's system, the three other trans-gulf lines between Vancouver Island and the Mainland having open wire land links. The new route is entirely cable from the company's Victoria exchange to its Seymour office, Vancouver.

Aerial, underground and submarine cable are used on the route, about thirty miles of cable being under the sea. The line goes from the Victoria exchange to Swartz Bay on Saanich Peninsula. There is a submarine section from Swartz Bay to Mayne Island. The new route is entirely cable from the company's Victoria exchange to its Seymour office, Vancouver.

Transmission on the route is greatly aided by amplifying devices known as "repeaters" in stations at Swartz Bay, Mayne Island and Point Roberts. One of the many features of the cable is that it contains both two-wire and four-wire circuits. A four-wire circuit means that four wires are used for a conversation instead of the usual two. Of the twelve voice channels now being used, five are four-wire circuits and seven are two-wire. The former will be given preference for calls over exceptionally great distances.

PRESS FOR ACTION ON PLANE RULES

Chamber of Commerce Asks Ottawa to Pass Regulations Immediately

Prompt action on the formation of special air regulations for Victoria Harbor will be asked of Ottawa by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce following a meeting of the directors yesterday afternoon.

The meeting was informed that regulations drawn up and approved at a special conference of transportation interests and city officials were on the way to Ottawa at present and discussion centered along these lines.

R. H. Ker, of the Chamber Aviation Committee, stated that Edward A. Lowe Jr. was prepared to establish a seaplane base and service in the harbor but wished assurance that planes would be able to use the water. Opposition already expressed indicated Victoria might lose the service. It had been pointed out by two officers of the Ottawa department that Esquimalt Harbor was not suitable for base purposes, however, and the use of Victoria Harbor was essential if the service was to be inaugurated. Mr. Lowe was ready to spend $40,000 or more.

Former Reeve Thanks Chamber of Commerce For Support Given Municipality

William Crouch, former reeve of Saanich, notified Victoria Chamber of Commerce directors by letter yesterday that as a result of his recent resignation from the office of Reeve he could no longer represent the municipality on the Chamber's board of directors.

"I have attended the board meetings for four years as the representative of Saanich municipality and I would like to express to you and your board my deep appreciation of many courtesies and kindnesses," he said in a letter to George I. Warren, managing secretary.

"I have always found the Chamber of Commerce ready and willing at all times to do anything that was in the interests of Saanich," Mr. Crouch added.

Deep regret was expressed by the directors of the Chamber on Mr. Crouch's resignation. He had been a source of strength to the Chamber of Commerce and it was sincerely hoped that for years the Chamber of Commerce would only be temporary. A resolution to this effect was passed.

The school attendance of Doukhobor children at Brilliant is, in proportion to the attendance in other schools throughout the province, quite low. It is stated by the Department of Education. It is the same at Peace Creek, though the radical element in certain districts, with their stubborn opposition to the schooling of their children, must not be overlooked, the report affirms.

Traffic on the Island Highway near Langford was inconveniently late yesterday evening when an oak tree, near the Langford residence of J. Stuart Yates, fell across the road, taking with it the power lines of the British Columbia Electric Railway Company. While workmen under P. N. Welch removed the obstruction, the emergency crew of the B.C. Electric cleared the power wires from the road. Traffic was kept moving over a short detour.

KWANIS CLUB ENDORSES ITS NEW BY-LAWS

Ratifies Changes Made at International Convention at Luncheon To-day

J. Little Speaks on Spiritual and Human Side of Club; Will Hold Ball

The Kwianis Club to-day ratified the by-laws, drawn up by the International Convention and approved by a local committee, during its luncheon at the Empress Hotel to-day. A short talk, by James Little and the announcement that the club would hold a ball at the Empress on October 29, were two features of the meeting.

Mr. Little spoke of the spiritual and human ideals of Kwianis. From babyhood to maturity men were striving for material gain, he said, and their efforts, when successful were rewarded with some material prize. The untrained spiritual and human objectives were, however, also worth pursuing, he said.

Mr. Little exemplified his statement by sketching the making of a fine Florence fabric which he exhibited. The artisan had doubtless made the article for a material reward, he said but had incorporated into it more than mere mechanical perfection. The result given to the fabric a beauty which illustrated the spiritual objectives of his art. Similarly the Kwianis movement depended on the large extent upon the materialistic activities of its members, but it also incorporated the spiritual and human side which it followed in its higher sense.

MAKES WORLD TRIP In closing he asked the clubmen to endeavor, through the organization, to make the world a slightly better place for their part in it.

Brooks, chairman, discussed the possibilities of a ball and secured the endorsement of the majority of the clubmen. Suggestions that two clauses, one regarding the composition of the nomination committee and the other regarding the privilege of members to see the books of the club, were voted down.

PLUNKETT BACK, SEES CONDITIONS BETTER ALREADY

Better conditions in every part of Canada as a result of the tariff changes enacted at the emergency session of the Canadian Parliament called to relieve unemployment, are reported by D. Plunkett, M.P. for Victoria, who has returned home. Already plans are being made to return to the country, he says. He claims that not since 1878, when the national policy of protection was introduced by Sir John A. Macdonald, has there been such a clear-cut and definite pathway prepared for the Canadian people to lead to a greater destiny, than that constructed by the legislation which was introduced by the Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister, at this last session of Parliament.

"Many factories in the east are already on the way to employing an industrial activity," he says, and we can be assured that, with the co-operation from all interests concerned, the future will soon show results that will vindicate the policy of the present Federal administration."

PROSPERITY WEEK BACKED BY CHAMBER

Will Ask Buyers to Concentrate on Purchase of Canadian Made Goods

An active step to promote the Prosperity Week movement was decided upon by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon. Purchasing agents will be requested by the Chamber to call for Canadian-made goods as far as possible.

Prosperity Week has been fixed from October 11 to 18. The directors showed themselves heartily in favor of the scheme during discussion on the topic. George McGregor, expressing sympathy with the plan, felt that it could have even a wider scope. Buyers for many companies were too ready to take foreign-made goods when they could just as easily get Canadian products. Whether or not wholesalers made a greater profit on foreign goods, he was not sure, but felt there was a field for much improvement in this direction.

Following Mr. McGregor's remarks it was decided to circulate a letter, written in forceful terms, to buyers, urging them to support the establishment of a West Coast National Bank south of the Alberni Canal to Premier Tolmie and several members of the Legislature before it had been considered by the board, was under fire at a meeting of the directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

Strong protest has been made by the Chamber on the action of Mr. Ironside. The resolution sent out, apparently coming from the Associated Boards, supporting the location of the West Coast Bank north of the canal and declared that any area south of the canal was unsuitable.

P. B. Fowler, president of the Victoria chamber, immediately wired to Mr. Ironside, asking for his authority in distributing the resolution, he reported, and asked for its recall. More over, private communications of a nature should not be sent out until passed on by the board, he maintained.

In reply to Mr. Fowler's protest, Mr. Ironside said there had been some error in the using of stationary for the resolution, which had been passed by the Associated Boards of Trade. In deference to the protest he said the resolution would be recalled.

A report of the chamber's tourist trade group opposing the resolution, was adopted by the directors and Mr. Fowler's action was confirmed.

Existing royalties can be no longer paid by the industry," said Clarence O'Brien, K.C., spokesman for the party. "The present royalties were based on high price conditions which no longer hold. At present, the province is only producing lumber at one-third its normal capacity."

Others in the delegation were: Norman English, president of the B.C. Lumber Association; G. S. Smith, T. A. Lamb, R. C. Richardson, P. A. Wilson, E. R. McFarlane, M. Murphy, A. W. Foster, S. Klinefelter, J. G. Pool, R. Taylor, E. B. Sturges.

A written statement from the lumbermen will be submitted.

Sunshine Means Health in Victoria

Health week, now being observed all over the British Empire, was instituted in 1912 by the Royal Sanitary Institute with the object of focusing public attention on matters of health for one week of the year.

"Do we, in Victoria, sufficiently appreciate our climatic and geographical advantages?" asks Dr. R. F. Pelton, medical health officer. "Do you know that the average weight and measurements of the babies attending the Victoria well-baby clinic are well above any American standards we can find? It is up to all parents to keep up this standard during pre-school years. Children can bathe during three months or more of the year on Victoria beaches and lakes and streams; and certainly they can live an open-air life for practically the whole twelve months."

"Where our less favored eastern cities have to resort to cod liver oil to provide the anti-rickets vitamin, it can be provided in Victoria in natural sunshine and 'skyshine'—there are valuable active rays reaching us even when the sun is not actually shining."

"The practice of letting the kids play outdoors with a reasonable proportion of bare skin is a good one; and adults could follow the same practice to advantage."

TRAFALGAR DAY COMMEMORATION PLANNED HERE

Nelson's Signal to Be Hoisted to Flagstaff at Parliament Buildings

Lieut. Governor, Premier and Mayor to Speak at Special Function

Nelson's famous signal will again flutter from the flagstaff in the Parliament Buildings ground on October 21, when the Navy League of Canada, in conjunction with the naval authorities at Esquimalt, observe Trafalgar Day.

At the latter event, tea will be served by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Navy League.

At 9.50 o'clock on the morning of October 21, the naval guard of honor, representatives of organizations, cadets and school children will assemble at the Parliament Buildings grounds. Ten minutes later the bugler will sound the signal to be hoisted and the bugler will sound the "Admiral's Salute."

Following this, the school children will sing "Rule Britannia," after which the Lieutenant-Governor will give a short address.

A verse of "O Canada" will then be sung by the children and cadets. The function will close with addresses by Premier Tolmie and Mayor Anson.

The naval guard will line up on the road facing the flagstaff, executive members of the Navy League, standard bearers from the L.O.E. and other representatives will take their place at the foot of the War Memorial, while the Navy League Sea Cadets will form up on the left of the naval guard, with the Military Cadets behind the latter body.

The school children will surround the guard and flagstaff, with His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, Premier Tolmie and Mayor Anson facing the flag.

SECRETARY OF ISLAND BOARDS IS UNDER FIRE

Say Resolution Opposing West Coast Park Location Wrongly Dealt With

Action of Victoria Chamber Results in Petition Being Withdrawn

Action by M. C. Ironside, secretary of the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island, in forwarding copies of a resolution opposing the establishment of a West Coast National Bank south of the Alberni Canal to Premier Tolmie and several members of the Legislature before it had been considered by the board, was under fire at a meeting of the directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

Strong protest has been made by the Chamber on the action of Mr. Ironside. The resolution sent out, apparently coming from the Associated Boards, supporting the location of the West Coast Bank north of the canal and declared that any area south of the canal was unsuitable.

SHRIMPION HEADS CIVIL SERVANTS

Former President and All of Last Year's Officers Re-elected

S. A. Shrimpton was again elected president of the Victoria Local Council of the Associated Civil Servants at a meeting held yesterday in the Law Chambers. Other elections included: Sidney Chivers as first vice-president; Walter Lorimer as auditor; A. H. C. Jones as secretary-treasurer. All have already held their respective offices for a year and their re-election is a mark of appreciation for the manner in which they have carried out their duties.

The balance sheet of the National Council, the members were told, shows a sum of over $6,000 in the national fund.

A matter up for discussion yesterday evening was the question of group insurance. It was decided that the scheme be put into effect immediately.

The date for future meetings was changed. From now on, the regular meeting will be held on the second Tuesday of each month.

A HOTPOINT SPECIAL

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

By Branson, Brown & Co. Ltd.
Winnipeg, Oct. 7.—Wheat: General liquidation of long wheat, combined with a lack of any pool early, gave the wheat market a very heavy tone today with prices on the extreme end sinking to about three cents under the close last night. It was more or less a local market with tired holders unloading, although there was some trading between the different months and between here and Chicago, buying Winnipeg December at the board difference of 4 1/4 to 4 1/2 cents under Chicago.
The chief buying locally was against the bids, the market being well through them, but the offerings were too heavy to be of much assistance. Actually there was some short selling early, but this was evened up before the close. Liverpool was relatively weak, closing 3/4 to 2 pennies lower when due from 1/4 to 1 1/2 higher on Winnipeg and Chicago.
Heavy rains have been received over the wheat belt and the weather is unsettled in the Canadian west, improving conditions for next season's crop. The local demand for cash wheat was indifferent, with spreads unchanged to one-eighth off. Large holders were not pressing sales as shippers and exporters were not inclined to increase their holdings when export trade is so quiet.
There was practically nothing working for export overnight. Export and domestic flour business is quiet no feature. The market past three days has shown the result of too much strong-arm stuff last week when prices recovered ten cents in four or five days, but that bulge was not followed by the foreigner nor the public.
The situation appears to be just as weak as ever and we believe the market can be sold on all fair bulges. Winnipeg futures closed on the bottom, showing losses of 3/4 to 3/8 cents for the day.
Coarse grain:—These markets were all decidedly weak, showing soft losses, especially rye. General liquidation was in evidence, with no interest being shown. There was no export business in anything and only a little domestic business was done over night.
Flax:—This market also showed decided weakness, closing 3/4 to 5/8 lower.

Vein Widens On Dalhousie

Head office of the company here today announced latest reports from the Tidewater property of the Dalhousie Mining Company, showing that the vein, three feet wide, on which drifting was commenced on September 8, has widened to the full face, and more than the east wall of the tunnel for the last ten feet is all ore. The grade is fully maintained—equal to anything taken out of the new workings.

Some time ago a dump was begun at the tunnel mouth, and it has been increasing at the rate of about ten tons a day, sorted ore. Heavy rains middle of last month swelled the creek and washed away several tons of this ore, so the crew was put to work on a new dump, more safely located, but most of the ore is now back on the tunnel. The rest of the crew are building the road preparatory to the installation of the compressor.

Manager McLeod expressed himself as being very pleased with the appearance of the ore in the tunnel and also with the work which had been done during his absence.

WHITNEY LETTER

(By Branson, Brown &amp; Co. Limited)

New York, Oct. 7.—Whitney of Wall Street Financial Bureau says to-day:

MODERATE RALLY ONLY

"After exhibiting extremely low vitality Saturday, the market was brought down to a long series of support points by the close, with the normal expectations for a market that was any good, being that on Monday's opening, it would recognize these support points and to the tune of substantial buying orders start upwards. This is exactly what has failed to do, and with this failure has come the indication that we will have to see lower prices before the market makes its stand for a turn.

"The procedure, then, becomes to use any rally to-day probably around the noon hour, to get out of stocks. While there are admittedly a good many of the secondary type of issues which have shown every willingness to call present levels their bottom price, I believe the story of further decline is concentrated in the so-called 'blue-chip' and market-leader stocks, especially the former. It may well be that the decline we are to see from here on will represent the final phase of what has now become almost a one-year decline in stock prices, but while this phase lasts it can be especially severe in these blue chip stocks.

"As pointed out Monday last week, this group is in the anomalous situation of presenting the best balance sheet soundness, etc., but nevertheless, at least temporarily, the worst market outlook. The reasons, it will be recalled, were that they represented a major percentage of what Europe was liquidating, that they constituted a large percentage of the collateral for the loans which banks considered as having over-stayed their time limit, and that they are essentially the stocks held by both insurance companies and investment trusts, which have been doing some cautious liquidation. In addition to all this they account for an uncomfortable percentage of the stocks in the generally used market averages. In this way, the whole blue chip group is not only in a position to most severely reflect further market decline, but to over-reflect it in the averages.

"The secondary group of stocks, which are trying hard to make bottom, are of course having little luck at it, and will have less with this pressure on them so that even if they are going down no more than a few points, they are certainly not going up enough to make them worth holding while the liquidation in the other part of the list continues.

"Added to this, think you are going to see some delayed liquidation in the utilities, more in the copper and agricultural implements, and possibly some in the motors if present Ford plans to popularize the price of the Lincoln line are announced.

"There is admittedly little upon which to build higher prices, and a whole lot of ammunition for a lower market, so advice using to-day's rally as a means of stepping out of a lot of stocks, if for no other reason than to replace them lower."

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

Foolish Wife Who Deserted Her Husband for Her Married Daughter—Going Steady—How Long Should a Widow Wear Her Wedding Ring?

DEAR MISS DIX—My wife and I have been married for nearly a quarter of a century and have been happy together. We have one child, a girl who is married, and last week my wife packed up all of her belongings and her husband. She tells me she still loves me, but that daughter isn't very strong and needs her more than I do, and she feels it her duty as a mother to go and live with her and take care of her. What do you think of that? A FORSAKEN HUSBAND.

Answer—I think your wife is a very foolish woman, and that she is making a mistake that she will rue in bitterness and tears.

She is breaking up her own home and casting you adrift just for the sake of making things a little easier and pleasanter for her daughter. Why, even a twittering sparrow has more sense than that. The old birds know enough to push the young ones out of the nest and force them to use their own wings. You never see a mother bird go staggering around through life burdened down with a grown young bird on its shoulders. It is only human mothers who are stupid enough to do that.

Of course, your wife wants to save her daughter all work and worry, and that is why she has gone to be an unpaid servant to her. She can't bear to think of poor, darling Mamma having to get up in the morning and get breakfast, and ruin her pretty hands sweeping, and getting all tired out scrubbing and cleaning. No doubt, she has evolved the theory that Mamma is frail and delicate. I never knew a mother to pamper a spoiled daughter who didn't justify herself by talking about Mamma's poor nerves or her weak heart or something, although Mamma was always able to do anything she wanted to, and could dance ten miles a night even if she wasn't strong enough to wipe the dishes.

And these mothers will not face the fact that, in their hearts, they know perfectly well that the very best remedy for whatever ails their Mammies and Sadies is to be thrown out on their own, and to have some real, honest, constructive job in which they are interested and for which they are responsible. It develops them mentally, spiritually and physically. It makes women—men to know that their husbands' health and happiness is in their hands and that they have to solve their own problems themselves instead of running to mother with them.

And it improves their health to have to do their own housework. Any teacher of physical culture will tell you that no form of exercise has yet been devised that brings into play every muscle as does the ceaseless bending, twisting and reaching, in making beds and sweeping floors and baking and broiling in the kitchen. If the doctors dared to, the prescription they would give to half the neurotic women in the country would be to tell them to throw drugs out of the window and go into their kitchens.

So your wife is doing her daughter no kindness in babying her. On the contrary, she is doing her a deadly wrong, and your daughter and her husband will be far better off and happier if they are left to work out their own salvation in their own way. Perhaps they will have some hardships. Perhaps there will be a few burned pies and tears and spat, but they will live through them all, and come out the stronger for the things they have fought through.

It is such a common thing for women to prefer their children to their husbands that we scarcely notice it. In fact, the great majority of women sacrifice their husbands to their children with a ruthlessness that is simply appalling, when you come to think of it. No matter how much they may have been in love with their husbands when they married them, as soon as the first baby is born the poor men merely exist for their wives as purveyors to their children.

The husband's tastes, needs, wishes, comfort are not considered in comparison with the children's. The best room is given for the nursery. Only foods suited to the infantile digestion are served on the table. The wife ceases to dress her husband as she used to, but she will have some hardships. Perhaps there will be a few burned pies and tears and spat, but they will live through them all, and come out the stronger for the things they have fought through.

Worse still, many women give all of their affection to their children, and their husbands, who are their nearest and dearest, are gradually grown up between them and their husbands that alienates them and makes them strangers.

Now I think that a woman can make no greater mistake than this because it is not giving the husband a square deal and because, in the end, the woman loses out herself. For the children grow up very soon and go about their business of life and then, if the woman has lost touch with her husband, if they are no longer companions, she is left desolate and lonely.

When a woman takes her marriage vows she swears to cleave unto her husband until death, and the implication is that she will make a home for him. There is nothing in it about her hanging on to her children and making a home for her in-laws. So if I were you, Mr. Man, I would tell my wife to come back and get on her job as a wife if she expected to hold it.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a blonde girl of nineteen and a young man has asked me to go steady with him. What does that word "steady" mean? This boy tells me that he never intends to marry. He went with one girl for four years and never even proposed and then stopped going with her. How can you tell when a boy is crazy about you? How do they act when they get tired of you? How long would you go with a fellow before marrying him? I don't love this boy, but I could learn to and I am afraid.

Answer—Your cold feet are a warning to you, my child, and if you take the hunch they are giving you, you won't waste any time on this boy who has served warning on you that his attentions are without intentions.

You ask what "going steady" means. I should say that it is a term that describes a girl who is just lacking in natural gumption, and who for the sake of a few attentions and a few dates, barter away her liberty and her matrimonial chances if the boy happens to be fickle or in no position to marry, or gets tired of her and just loses his taste for her. Never was there a more unequal bargain, or one in which a man got the best of it, for it commits the girl to everything and the boy to nothing.

When a boy and girl keep "steady company," as the phrase goes, he feels he has a right to monopolize her society and to forbid her going out with other men, but he is under no obligations to take care of himself, and if he doesn't date her up she can sit at home and suck her thumbs. He keeps other men away from her and blocks her chance of making a good marriage while she is young and pretty, but he is not engaged to her and is free to ride away whenever he pleases.

So what will you get out of "keeping company" with a young man who is candid enough to serve notice on you that he never intends to marry you?

It is easy enough to tell when a boy is crazy about you. The signs of it break out all over him like the measles. He is always pursuing you. He is always taking you to places and doing things for you. He is always under foot. And he tells you about it by the hour.

And it is equally easy to tell when a boy is tired of you. Whenever you have to call a boy up over the telephone instead of his calling you up; whenever you have to make the dates; whenever you have to write two letters to him one; whenever he breaks appointments or is slack about keeping them; whenever he quits bringing you candy or flowers; whenever he quits telling you how wonderful you are and what marvelous eyes you have; whenever he begins to look listless and bored, then he is weary of you. Then it is all over. Finished. And if you are wise you will beat him to it and get tired first.

The length of time a girl should go with a boy before she marries him depends altogether upon circumstances. Only it should be long enough for her to get well acquainted with all of his little peculiarities.

DEAR MISS DIX—Should a widow continue to wear her wedding ring? Is she guided by convention or her own heart in the matter?

Answer—It is a matter entirely of personal inclination, but a widow generally wears her wedding ring as a sort of a badge of achievement, something that indicates that she has been attractive enough to a man for him to admire her and marry her.

Very often flirtatious married women park their wedding rings at home in order to make men think they are young girls, but even young widows feel that widowhood makes a routine and alluring background, and so they like to flaunt the ring that proclaims their estate.

FOUR BARRISTERS ADDED TO ROLLS

Four barristers were added to the rolls of the British Columbia Law Society yesterday afternoon, when Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald presided at Judge Macdonald by Lindley Cress, the administration of the customary oaths to William Robinson Long of Penticton, William Norman Justin Suckingham and John Douglas Forin of Vancouver, and Sigvard Holm Kyle of Trail. All were called as barristers and the three first named were also admitted to practice as solicitors. Mr. Kyle is a member of the British Bar. The candidates were introduced to Judge Macdonald by Lindley Cress, K.C., and were welcomed by his Lordship in a brief address.

"A.J.'S" HAVE IT ON BRIDGES OF BIG EMPRESSES

Capt. Hailey, Capt. Hosken and Capt. Holland Have Sama Initials

The skippers of the Canadian Pacific Empress liners are well known in Victoria, particularly to workers at the outer docks who see them as they bring their great white liners into port every two weeks from across the ocean or from Vancouver on their way to the Orient. Their names and their faces are well known but very few realize that three of the skippers have exactly the same initials.

The senior captain of the trio is Captain A. J. Hailey, R.N.R., who is now in command of the Empress of Canada, which left here last Friday at noon for the Hawaiian Islands and the Orient. Hailey, with his white hair and white beard is perhaps the most distinguished of all the skippers and for more than a quarter of a century has strode the bridge of some Empress liner plying between Victoria and the Far East.

The third of the A.J. trio is Captain J. J. Holland, R.N.R., who has had command of the liners from time to time but is now skipper aboard the company's new flagship Empress of Japan, which will sail from Victoria on Thursday of this week for Victoria and Vancouver, arriving here October 17.

PILOT'S LOOK OUT

Princess Norah, leaving Matilda Creek, southbound, 11:30 a.m. Kingsley, at Port Alice, 11 a.m. Shikshan Maru, arrived Brentwood Bay from Chemainus, 7 a.m. Golden Sea, leaving Chemainus for sea, 5 p.m.

B.C. FISHERMEN DEMAND STRICT WATER PATROL

Recent Raids of U.S. Seiners Into Canadian Waters Reported to Association

New Westminster, Oct. 7.—The B.C. Fishermen's Protective Association has demanded that the Federal Government enforce a strict patrol of the boundary waters.

Japanese Ship Taking Lumber

The Japanese freighter Shikshan Maru arrived in San Francisco early this morning and proceeding to a point near the Brentwood Bay landing of the Mill Bay ferry, dropped anchor.

Niagara Will Arrive Here On Thursday

Aided by good weather on the Pacific, the Canadian-Australian liner Niagara, is making an average speed of nineteen knots which will enable her to reach the William Head quarantine station on Thursday at noon, according to wireless advice reaching Victoria.

The ship is racing to port with this morning from Capt. T. V. Hill, her commander. This time will bring the ship alongside the Rithet piers about 1:30 o'clock. She is inbound from Sydney, Auckland, Suva and Honolulu.

The Niagara is racing to port with a late shipment from New Zealand, which is expected will avoid the new tariff going into effect on October 12.

Bees this large shipment of butter the Niagara has a fair number of passengers aboard, several of whom will disembark at Victoria.

TEUCER IS DUE LATE TO-NIGHT FROM FAR EAST

Delayed a little off the West Coast of Vancouver Island by fog and rough weather it will be 11 o'clock to-night when the Blue Funnel liner Teucer, reaches the William Head quarantine station on her way to Victoria and Vancouver from the Orient.

The liner Proteus, of the same fleet, passed Victoria this afternoon on her way to see from Vancouver. She had a large cargo of British Columbia forest products and a large number of passengers.

SEATTLE SHIPPING

Seattle, Oct. 7.—Back from her fourteenth voyage to the Arctic, the schooner C. S. Holmes, Capt. John Backlund Jr. commanding, returned yesterday with her hold stored with furs, whale bone and ivory.

Backlund reported an unusually poor fur catch in Northern Alaska this year.

The steamship Elster Grange of the Furness Line, first of the extra full reefer tonnage named by regular lines to move the Northwest's large offering of apples to Europe, is due to arrive here to-night to load some 150,000 boxes of apples. From now until the end of the apple shipping season many "reefer" ships are scheduled to load here.

Alaska and Coast Ships Keeping Busy

The pilchard trade off the West Coast of Vancouver Island is continuing good, according to reports reaching Victoria, and fishing boats are having good catches.

With the foggy and unsettled weather setting in, however, it is expected the season will soon be over. The C.P.R. coast freighter Nootka left Victoria last night for West Coast pilchard plants to load oil and fish meal for Vancouver.

The Nootka has been in this service several months and will make two or three trips more before coming here for the winter months.

The other C.P.R. freighter, the Princess Ena, is now on her way to Skagway with winter supplies and general freight for Alaska and the Yukon from Victoria and Vancouver. She will also shortly tie up for the winter.

The Alaska passenger steamer Princess Louise arrived in Vancouver this morning from Skagway, Wrangell, Juneau and Ketchikan. She will now come here this trip, however, but will call again from Vancouver to-morrow night at 9 o'clock for the north. It is her last trip of the season on the northern run as she will be replaced by the Princess Alice on the next voyage.

The West Coast passenger steamer Princess Norah is now coming down the coast from Port Alice and is calling at numerous ports en route. She is expected here about noon to-morrow, depending upon weather conditions, which off the coast at this time of the year are not very settled.

Princess Adelaide Will Get New Mast

Tarrow's Limited are building a big main mast for the C.P.R. coast steamer Princess Adelaide which is now lying alongside the outfitting wharf of the firm.

The Princess Adelaide has been lying idle all summer at the Belleville Street pier and will probably remain idle all winter.

STEAMSHIP MEN OPEN MEETINGS IN VANCOUVER

Coast Representatives of Transportation Companies to Discuss Pacific Business

Vancouver, Oct. 7.—A meeting of the transpacific passenger conference opened at Hotel Vancouver today, when matters concerning passenger traffic on the Pacific will be discussed. These meetings are held several times yearly at Pacific Coast ports.

Those in attendance are E. White (chairman), representing Japan Mail Line (N.Y.K.); San Francisco; Walter Johnson of the American Mail Line and the Canadian Pacific; J. C. Hancomb, American Mail Line, Seattle; W. G. Annable, assistant passenger traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Montreal; J. C. Irons, manager Canadian-Australian Royal Mail Line, Vancouver; J. J. Forster, general passenger agent, Canadian Pacific Steamship Ltd., Vancouver; H. F. Cullen, general passenger agent, Los Angeles Steamship Co., Los Angeles.

Yesterday afternoon there were also four boats in port, the Jane, the Vero, the Eastern and the Albatross. Over the week-end three others were handled, the Antler, the Mermaid and the Neptune, making a total of twelve loading near Victoria since Sunday morning.

After taking on their bait at Otter Bay, the fishing boats will proceed to the halibut banks off the Queen Charlotte Islands and then return to Seattle with their catches. It is after discharging their fish and while on their return to the fishing grounds that they call in here for herring bait.

Twelve Fish Boats Load In Few Days

Five more United States fishing vessels from Seattle arrived in the Inner Harbor to-day to clear customs and immigration before proceeding to Otter Bay to load herring bait from the Otter Bay Packing Company. Boats arriving this morning were the Argo, Prosperity, Alhona, Pioneer No. 3 and Alhona.

Bad weather is holding salvage of local craft

No word has been received in Victoria at the office of the Island Tug and Barge Company regarding salvage work on the company's tugboat Island Planet, which is lying submerged in three fathoms of water in Sea Otter Cove, just south of Cape Scott, off the West Coast of Vancouver Island.

The salvage steamer Hecla No. 2 of the Pacific Salvage Company's Vancouver fleet is in the cove and will commence salvage operations as soon as the weather is favorable.

Sea Otter Cove is exposed to the heavy ground swells of the open Pacific Ocean and salvage work can not be carried on except in absolutely fair weather, salvage men in Victoria state. In the meantime, the chance of salvaging the Island Planet are becoming less and less, as the longer she remains under the water the more difficult the job will become.

"REMARKABLE!" MRS. WEBSTER SAYS OF SARGON

"I'm Like a Different Person," Declares Vancouver Woman

"I'm making this statement about my wonderful experience with Sargon because I believe it's my Christian duty to do so and I hope that what I say will be of help to others," recently declared

Mrs. M. A. Webster, of 287 19th Ave. E., Vancouver, who is a member of the United Church, and very active in religious work.

"All my life I've been well and strong—I had a cheerful spirit, and always loved to be visiting with people; but about a year ago my health gave away, and my spirit seemed to break with it. I had to give up all my church activities, and go to bed and call my daughter over to do my housework and wait on me."

"I had sick headaches that were so severe at times I could hardly endure them; there were almost constant pains through the upper part of my body, and the calves of my lower limbs would cramp and become numb. I suffered terribly with indigestion in the form of shortness of breath; and I had severe bilious attacks."

"This wonderful Sargon treatment has put me on my feet, like a different woman! I have a marvelous feeling of strength and energy all over me, and my interest in life itself has been renewed. I never suffer with indigestion like I did; and the headaches and bilious attacks, pains and cramps through my body and limbs have disappeared."

"I'd taken so much strong physic that it had stopped even relieving my direct need satisfactorily; but these splendid Sargon Pills have regulated me perfectly, and acted without a feature of the upsetting effect I found in other laxatives. Sargon is truly a remarkable medicine."

Sargon may be obtained in Victoria and Vancouver from all Owl Drug Stores; in New Westminster, at the Bessie Drug Company; in Esquimalt from Palmer's Drug Store; in Oak Bay from Charles Hudson. (Adv.)
